

DEADLOCK IS UNBROKEN AFTER 42 ROLL CALLS; M'ADOO SHOWS BURST OF SPEED TO TOP 500 MARK

Postponement of Methodist Conference Looms

QUESTION RAISED AS TO LEGALITY OF EXTRA SESSION

Resolution Proposes Another General Conference in May, 1925, To Avoid Mooted Point.

QUESTION ARGUED THROUGHOUT DAY

Judge Candler and Author of Unification Plan Take Stand That Conference Now Legal.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. Chattanooga, Tenn., July 2.—Adjournment of the extraordinary general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, without action on the proposal for unification with the Methodist Episcopal church seemed as a possibility tonight.

The situation grew out of an all-day debate on a resolution providing for another general conference in May, 1925. Its adoption would leave the delegates with nothing to do, for rules adopted provide that the only business that can be transacted is consideration of the unification plan.

The resolution, which was introduced jointly by Dr. A. J. Lamar, of Nashville, Tenn., and Joseph E. Cockrell, of Dallas, Texas, follows:

Text of Resolution.

"Whereas, there has been expressed a doubt as to the legality of the special session of the general conference, and

"Whereas, if the plan of unification now proposed is finally adopted by a constitutional method, the result will involve the title to all property in the church; and

"Whereas, it is certain that if a general conference is called by the bishops by and with the advice of all the annual conferences as the constitution clearly provided prior to 1886, there can be no question of the legality of a general conference so called; therefore,

"Be it resolved: That this general conference requests the bishops and all the annual conferences to join in a call for the general conference to meet the first Wednesday in May, 1925, to vote on the adoption of the plan of unification of our church and the Methodist Episcopal church submitted to this general conference by the commission on unification."

Dr. Lamar explained that his resolution was offered solely in the interest of peace, peace now and in the future. He pointed out the numerous suits which arose over church property when the Cumberland Presbyterian church some years ago voted to unite with one of the larger Presbyterian bodies. The possibility of similar suits and the bitter feeling among the church members which resulted from the court actions were something to be avoided, he added.

The conference which he proposed would dispose of the legal points raised, he said, and there would be no loopholes for attacks in the future.

Melon Planned For Underpaid City Employees

Traffic Fines May Be Used for Increases in Pay of Workers.

A melon cutting for underpaid city employees was declared by the finance committee of council Wednesday afternoon upon notification from City Controller B. Graham West that the speed was being waged by the police department probably would net the city twice as big an increase from police court fines as had been anticipated for the year in January.

City park hands were voted a flat increase of 7.5 per cent in pay; public health nurses, white, were boosted $15 a month and colored ones $10 a month; the colored city physician was raised $10 a month and the superintendent of the city hospital $10 a month.

VIADUCT MEASURE PASSAGE AFFECTS HOTEL LEASE SALE

Kimball House Transaction Delayed by Senate Consideration of Important Atlanta Bill.

PASSAGE WOULD MEAN LOSS, JACOBS STATES

Dinkler Interests Dispose of Lease on Legislative Hostelry To Macon Capitalists.

Widespread interest in the Atlanta viaduct bill, which is pending in the state senate and which has met with opposition there, was sharpened Wednesday by disclosure of the sale of the Kimball house lease and the presence of a clause in the contract based on possible passage of the viaduct measure.

The Kimball, the main entrance of which is on Pryor street, about a hundred feet from the railroad tracks, fronts on Pryor and Wall streets as well as on Peachtree, and would be vitally affected by construction of the proposed Pryor street viaduct.

The Dinkler hotel interests disposed of their lease of about five years' tenure to Dr. E. J. Jacobs and E. W. Maynard, Macon capitalists. Details of the transaction were unavailable, but unofficial reports were to the effect that the sale price of the lease was $55,000.

Viaduct Clause in Lease.

Dr. Jacobs admitted Wednesday night that there is a clause in the lease contract involving possibility of passage of the viaduct measure, which will empower the city of Atlanta to construct viaducts over state property at Pryor street and Central avenue. He stated that passage of the measure probably would involve financial loss to himself and his partner, as well as to the Dinkler interests, at the same time expressing the opinion that the bill probably would fail to pass in the senate.

Dr. Jacobs stated that the changes of management of the Kimball, which for years has been political and legislative headquarters for the state, took place at midnight, June 30. He added that consummation of the transaction had been delayed on account of senate consideration of the viaduct bill.

Should the proposed Pryor street viaduct materialize, its construction would mean that the lobby and first floor of the Kimball house would be below the level of the viaduct. Atlanta realtors all along have expressed

$2,000,000 STATE HIGHWAY PROJECTS TO BE LET TODAY

Contracts To Be Awarded for Road Building and Bridge Construction Work in Georgia.

Contracts for road building and bridge construction work in Georgia, totaling more than $2,000,000 in value, will be let by the state highway department today.

Bids were opened Wednesday, but owing to the large number it was impossible to announce the awards until today after all offers have been compared carefully and final reports drafted.

Nine Bridge Projects.

Included in contracts to be let are nine bridge projects and eight highway building projects.

Among the bridges is one more than a mile in length, over the Ocmulgee river, near Lumber City, on the line between Telfair and Jeff Davis counties. Estimated cost of this project is $227,608.61. The bridge is to be let in three contracts, each calling for creosoted timber pile bridges, with eighteen-foot roadway and a total length of 3,041 feet. Main river spans are to be of structural steel on reinforced concrete piers, consisting of two 100-foot through steel trusses.

SPEECH OF BRYAN STIRS PESSIMISM AND DISAPPROVAL

Some Think Those on His "White List" Disqualified for Nomination by His Approval.

BY MARK SULLIVAN. New York, July 2.—The writer's first impulse after Bryan's speech this afternoon was to run rapidly over in his mind all the candidates before the convention and try to surmise which one would be the most likely beneficiary of this most extraordinary interlude. That first hasty judgment was to the effect that Senator Carter Glass might be.

To the writer it seemed that Bryan's action would be likely to have the effect of disqualifying every one of the eight names on his "white list"—McAdoo, Ralston, of Indiana, Walsh of Montana, Governor Bryan of Nebraska, Meredith of Iowa, Robinson of Arkansas, Daniels of North Carolina, and Murphree of Florida. To be sure, Bryan mentioned these men to commend them. But as one saw the angry groups among the delegates, one felt that the net effect would be to disqualify them. Later reflection supported this judgment, because it is obvious that the friends of all the candidates named on the list would feel hostile toward the beneficiaries of that list, and would unite against them.

Black List Implied.

While Bryan named only a "white" list and specifically refrained from naming a "black" list, the black list was there all the same. It was implied in what Bryan did. Of course, one might say that, by implication, all the men not mentioned by Bryan as acceptable were, by inference, unacceptable.

But everybody who had followed Bryan's other actions in the convention, and his position generally, knew that the men he had in mind as unacceptable were Smith, Underwood and John W. Davis.

This seemed to leave Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, as the one candidate who was not damned in the eyes of most of the delegates by being on Bryan's white list, and who at the same time it was not unacceptable to Bryan and Bryan's followers.

Benefits Glass and Cox.

There may or may not be anything in the idea that Senator Glass will be the surprised beneficiary of Bryan's action and the most logical outcome of the situation as it stood immediately after Bryan's speech. Yet another man who conceivably might be a beneficiary of what Bryan did is Cox, of Ohio.

All this was one instant reaction to

KNELL OF M'ADOO TOLLED BY BRYAN IN STAMPEDE CRY

Great Commoner Attempts To Rush Californian to Victory in Spectacular Move.

CONVENTION TASTES REPUBLICAN WAR CRY

Thrust for Ralston, of Indiana, Looms as Next Move To Break Deadlock of Candidates.

BY RAYMOND GLADDER. Madison Square Garden, New York, July 2.—An attempt to nominate Samuel M. Ralston, of Indiana, is the next big item on the program of the democratic national convention.

McAdoo's end came when William J. Bryan, who took the platform during the thirty-eighth ballot in a spectacular attempt to stampede the convention, was howled down.

Forty-two ballots had been taken when the convention adjourned late Wednesday night and the last tally showed nobody making gains.

McAdoo, with 503.4, seems to have been finally stopped. His managers tried all of the tricks in their bag Wednesday and they never once were able to jack up their candidate to striking distance of the 722 necessary to nominate.

Day of Trench Fighting.

Al Smith still has the galleries with him, and he has his closely organized band of faithful delegates who are ready to stick to the last gasp. But he finished the forty-second ballot with 318.6, which is 4.1 less than he had when he began the day.

The twelve ballots taken Wednesday were trench fighting of the most stubborn kind, marked by several spectacular raids by the McAdoo forces, which brought little except momentary cheers.

None of the minor candidates made any gains. The shrewd managers of these apparently are laying flat on the ground in order not to be hit by the cross fire of the McAdoo and Smith forces. At the proper moment they will rise up their heads, take a look around, and if everything seems auspicious, they will begin to show their strength.

Ralston Forces Crouched.

Ralston, of Indiana, is marked as the favorite at the moment and a determined push will be started by Tom Taggart at the proper time. Taggart is waiting for the forces behind Smith and McAdoo to expend themselves fully and for the delegates to wear themselves down to a point of impatience. He has a barrel of delegates all ready to feed out, a few at a time. This drive may start late Wednesday night or it may be held up until Thursday, depending upon developments on the floor.

Ralston's vote on the 38th ballot was 32, which is just two more than he had at the start. But that is all Taggart wants him to have now. He

M'ADOO TO FREE HIS DELEGATES ON 51ST BALLOT

Tentative Agreement Reached Providing for Release—Copeland Boom Planned Then.

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMAN. Madison Square Garden, New York, July 2.—(Special.)—While the big drive of the McAdoo forces tonight following the Bryan appeal gave the candidate the formidable peak of slightly more than 500 votes, the nomination of the Californian is no more probable than it has been at any time since the convention began. Mr. McAdoo is personally in charge of his floor work and expects to pull across the majority line tomorrow with Arkansas and Virginia, and thereafter stampede the convention into his nomination.

Desperate efforts will be made in all-night conferences to solidify the opposition to Mr. McAdoo. The lack of coordination in the anti-McAdoo forces is the strongest and in the Californian's position, his line remaining firm under the masterful leadership of Kramer, Cummings and Bryan.

If the nomination of Mr. McAdoo cannot be made by the fifth ballot he has tentatively agreed to let his delegates use their judgment.

When this occurs it appears that Copeland, of New York, will be taken up actively as the compromise candidate.

Probe of Service Board Is Blocked.

Representative Wimberly Declares Inquiry 'Would Be Welcomed by Commission Members.'

Representative D. C. Wimberly's resolution, calling for investigation of the state public service commission, was tabled by the house committee on the state of the republic after a 30-minute session Wednesday night.

Representative Wimberly monopolized most of the committee session with a heated speech, in which he declared that the inquiry "would be welcomed by the members of the commission themselves."

"I believe it is equally true," he added, "that this investigation should be made for defense of the members themselves, and if they have performed their duties righteously, then they will have no fear of such an investigation."

Asked Probe Last Year.

The representative from Toombs was author of a similar measure, which he presented just before adjournment of the house last year, and which never was reported back to the committee. Prior to this action, he had introduced a bill to reduce the public service commission to three members instead of five. This measure was reported back to the house by a close vote.

Shortly after adjournment of last year's session, Commissioner James A. Perry, in a public statement, Frantic Work on Floor Pushes Californian Up to 505 1-2 Votes on Fortieth Ballot.

TWO-THRDS RULE FACES NEW ATTACK

Oklahoma and Missouri Went Back to McAdoo To Let Him Throw in His Full Strength.

No Compromise Yet.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3.—Conference efforts to agree on a compromise candidate proved abortive after adjournment. Neither McAdoo nor Smith leaders would weaken to the point of discussing second choices.

Prospects were that the convention might continue until Saturday before a presidential candidate is nominated.

Smith forces will start their big drive Thursday, collecting all the stray votes they can muster in an effort to make the governor's strength sufficiently impressive to put McAdoo definitely out of the running.

There are plans to put Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, forward Thursday and test his strength as a dark horse.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 2.—William Gibbs McAdoo ran to a new high mark in tonight's balloting in the democratic national convention. He passed the much-sought goal of 500 votes by dint of much frantic work and persuasion and maneuvering on the part of his floor managers, who declared they hadn't finished their work yet.

Running close to the 46 and 44 ball record of the Baltimore and San Francisco conventions, respectively, the Madison Square Garden exhibition gave promise of setting a new mark. McAdoo hit his high mark in the fortieth ballot when he polled 505 1-2 votes. Smith at that time had dropped a little below his high level, 323 1-2, made on previous ballots. At the close of the fortieth ballot last night McAdoo had stood at 415 1-2 votes. Thus he gained nearly a hundred in today's balloting and the votes he got were taken principally from John W. Davis who fell to 67 on the last ballot tonight.

Fear Effect of Bryan Speech.

McAdoo people went into tonight's session attempting to estimate what damage had been done to their cause by the riotous performance of the late afternoon session when William Jennings Bryan precipitated a tumult with the approval of McAdoo from the platform and aroused cries of "oil."

At first there were various predictions of what the effect might be at the night session but when the leaders got outside and thought it over it became apparent that the principle

For the Salt of the Earth, See Georgia

They call Georgia the Empire State—and you will find the name not without significance.

For the very blood of the citizens in this state springs from the best of the old British Empire mingled with two noteworthy streams of American immigration—one flowing down from Pennsylvania and the other from New England.

These immigrants, settling among the great masses of the State's people, have produced the typical Georgian of today, the free citizen of the Empire State.

He or she is the member of this far-flung community who most earnestly appreciates the service rendered by The Atlanta Constitution, which—fifteen years before any other Atlanta newspaper was even in existence—began telling Americans to come to Georgia for peace and prosperity.

NEW CEMETERY PERMIT SOUGHT

Hearing Before County Board Set for July 11, With Turner Not Voting.

Coming close upon the heels of an injunction granted by Judge E. D. Thomas against establishment of a cemetery in Oak Grove district on the ground that the permit therefor was void, because voted for by County Commissioner Charles G. Turner, "who was financially interested in the project," Commissioner Turner began plans for a new permit before the county board Wednesday.

Commissioner Turner informed the board, which was in regular monthly session, that a new application was being prepared, this time in written form, for a permit to empower U. E. Etheridge & Co. to establish the cemetery enjoined in the court order.

Commissioner Turner is not to participate in the voting on the new application, and therefore the board is not enjoined from granting a permit thereunder, he contended. Judge Thomas enjoined Etheridge, Turner and associates from proceeding with the proposed cemetery under the old permit, because it was granted under a vote of the board participated in by Commissioner Turner. The court held that there was evidence showing that Commissioner Turner was per-

5 ALLEGED KLANSMEN ARRESTED AT ALBANY

Albany, Ga., July 2.—(Special.)—Five alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan were arrested here late last night by Sheriff O. F. Tarrera and his deputies, of Dougherty county, and are at liberty tonight under $500 bonds each under blanket charges of misdemeanor. Specific charges are expected to be filed tomorrow. The men are said to have told officers that they were going to warn a woman against the life she had been living.

Those arrested are T. A. West, Central of Georgia engineer; A. J. Pitts, owner of a meat market; C. V. Jones, Central car repairer; A. M. Raffield, baggagemaster; and C. E. Landrum, a barber.

In the automobile in which the men were riding were found complete klan regalia with two pistols, Deputy Sheriff Denson stated. The license tag of the car was covered with a black cloth, which caused the officers to follow it.

When officers stopped the car, occupants were not inclined to talk, but when told that they would be taken to the jail, they are said to have told the officers that they were on the mission to warn the woman and intended to return to town and report the case to county officers.

Landrum is said to have denied that he knew of the mission of the party. He said that he thought they were just taking a ride. Pitts claimed that they did not tell him where they were going when he joined the party at his home after they came for him.

VIADUCT MEASURE AFFECTS LEASE SALE

belief that construction of the viaduct would bring about wrecking of the old Kimball house structure and erection in its stead of a handsome new hotel or business building.

Action Is Postponed.
The viaduct bill, which passed the house last year and this year came before the senate as unfinished business, has met with slow progress in the upper branch of the legislature. While it was expected to come up for action Wednesday afternoon, consideration was postponed on request of the Fulton delegation until July 10, when it will be made a special order of business.

The new Kimball lessees, Dr. Jacobs and Mr. Maynard, are prominent citizens of Macon. Dr. Jacobs is proprietor of the Terminal hotel at Macon and for 30 years has been in the wholesale drug business in that city. Mr. Maynard is a prominent lawyer of the central Georgia city and at one time was judge of the recorder's court there.

Objection of Opponents.
Opponents of the viaduct measure have advanced the argument that construction of the viaduct will tend to depreciate the value of the state-owned railroad property, particularly the old Union depot, on the ground that the viaduct will, in effect, raise the street level and leave the depot "in a hole."

Mayor Walter Sims Wednesday night branded this argument as ridiculous, and said that, quite to the contrary, the building of the viaduct would greatly enhance the value of the state property.

"It is conservatively estimated," said Mayor Sims, "that building the proposed viaduct will enhance property values in this neighborhood including the state property—by ten million dollars."

"Instead of damaging the Union depot, the result of the improvement would be to better it, for it is certain that the N. C. & St. L. would take steps to improve the depot on which it holds a 50-year lease. Railroad officials have said that, if the viaducts are built, they will build a structure similar to the terminal station, using the present depot merely as a train shed, with ticket office, waiting rooms and other offices on the viaduct level."

Mayor Sims then pointed out that, even if the facts were different, the bill before the senate does not in any way imperil the values of the state properties, inasmuch as it provides that before work on the viaducts is begun the plans must be approved by a special committee, including the members of the state public service commission and the governor.

"And it is unthinkable," said the mayor, "that such a committee would give its approval to any plans which would be detrimental to the best interests of the state."

No Changes At Kimball.
The Kimball house, which for many years has been the Atlanta home of a large majority of the members of the legislature, and which they have grown to regard almost as their own, will continue to be operated just as it has in the past. Dr. Jacobs, the new lessee, stated Wednesday, George Keen, the house manager, will continue in that position and there will be no changes at present in any of the house staff, Dr. Jacobs said.

DECLARE MACON BONDS 'LEGAL' IN NEW YORK

Macon, Ga., July 2.—(Special.)—Macon bonds have been declared a legal investment for New York banks, according to a telegram received today from M. L. Mason, examiner with the New York state banking department. This means, according to local city officials, that bonds issued in the future by Macon will have a greater value.

At the time the recent $600,000 issue was offered to bidders they were not recognized as "legals," and as a result many bidders expected to offer less than their par value of $1,000 each. The successful bidder, however, offered above par.

Efforts to have the bonds declared "legals" were hampered by The Financial and Commercial Chronicle, a publication, which printed the announcement that Macon passed the interest on municipal bonds in 1878 and had later funded the entire issue, reissuing 6 per cent bonds in the place of those bearing 7 per cent.

The statement was denied and affidavits were secured from former city officials showing that Macon had never compromised any of her debts since the time the city was granted a charter.

Preparations Complete For Big Holiday Crowds

Atlanta's annual celebration of July 4 is less than 24 hours away. Before another sun rises and sets the nation will have celebrated another anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Atlanta's program is divided among a number of city parks with Lakewood park making an elaborate bid for the huge holiday crowds. Special programs will be conducted, however, in Piedmont park and in many other sections of the city and the celebration is expected to be more general throughout this city and section than in many years previous.

At Lakewood park preparations for an elaborate program to continue throughout the day have been under way for several days. The program includes auto and harness racing, with the south's best-known auto drivers in readiness for the signal and about 15 speedy horses ready to prance to the post.

In addition to these racing features plans have been made for the greatest show of fireworks ever witnessed in Atlanta. A large number of decorators have been busy during the past two weeks hanging decorations, adding lighting features and in general dressing up the park in its best holiday habiliments.

Reduced rates by practically every railroad in the southeast are expected to attract several thousand visitors to the city and with convenient street car schedules to and from the park from the center of the city, the park management expects to entertain on Friday one of the greatest crowds ever assembled in Atlanta for a July 4 celebration.

ORDER ADJUSTMENTS OF TAX ASSESSMENTS

Adjustment of assessments for taxation on property in the Hunter street special taxing zone was authorized by the tax committee of city council Wednesday, it was announced by Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, chairman.

Owners of property in the zone who were subjected to a special tax to raise the funds for building the Hunter street approach to the Spring street viaduct, protested against substantial increases in their property assessments for this year, declaring that construction work had made their property useless and idle for more than two years.

The adjustment will affect only the property on which the special viaduct tax was levied, extending along both sides of Hunter street from Forsyth street to the viaduct and the property along the viaduct which was included in the special tax zone.

150 ELKS ON SPECIAL TO BOSTON CONVENTION

Atlanta's delegation of Elks, led by the Royal Purple band and the Blue Devil patrol, left the Terminal station Wednesday afternoon to attend the annual meeting of the grand lodge at Boston. The 150 delegates were on board a special train of the Seaboard Air Line railway, which had been decorated in purple and white from the engine to the observation car.

The entire Atlanta delegation paraded through the downtown streets from the Elks' home on East Ellis street, and hundreds of members of the lodge, who were unable to make the trip, were at the station to see the contingent pull out.

Four stop-overs will be made by the Atlanta party en route to Boston. Arriving at Richmond Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, the party will be guests of the mayor and Elks' lodge of that city until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the special leaves for Washington. A stop-over from midnight until 7 o'clock will be made in the capital. The Fourth of July will be spent in Philadelphia, and the last stop before reaching Boston will be made in New York.

The Atlanta Elks will be at the American house in Boston, two blocks from the Boston Elks' home, and within a short distance of the convention hall.

FOREIGN SERVICE DISMISSES SIXTY

Washington, July 2.—An unprecedented shake-up in the foreign service was announced today by the state department under authority of the recently-enacted Rogers bill for reorganization of consular and diplomatic activities. Retirement for age and resignations removed 60 names from the permanent rolls, and in addition a reclassification from top to bottom was announced.

One diplomatic and 31 consular officials were retired as having reached the limit of 65 years; five diplomatic attaches who had been carried on an unassigned list were redesignated as

"not reinstated," eight diplomatic and 13 consular officials were demoted as failing to reach the required standard of efficiency and two names were removed by resignations.

METHODISTS MAY POSTPONE MEETING

Next speaker. Reinforced with a large volume of reports of the supreme court of the United States and numerous pamphlets and other documents, Judge Candler launched into a lengthy defense of the legality of the conference. It has already been declared legal by the highest legal body in the church, the college of bishops, adding that the bishops settled the issue when they issued the call. He urged the defeat of the resolution offered by Dr. Lamar.

Thinks Conference Illegal.
Dr. W. W. Scott, who opened the argument at the afternoon session, declared his belief that the special conference was illegal. Nothing was said about it at the last regular conference, he added. Had that conference been adjourned subject to the call of the college of bishops, there would be no doubt about its propriety. Dr. Scott spoke at length and was interrupted frequently by questioners.

H. H. White, of Alexandria, La., the man who is credited with having drawn up a plan for unification which forms the ground work of the plan approved by the unification joint commission, followed Dr. Scott. Mr. White, an attorney, declared that the Lamar-Candler resolution should be discussed from every angle before it is acted upon.

Mr. White took up Dr. Lamar's reference to the negro question in the latter's address in favor of adoption of his resolution. Mr. White said he was born under the "bonnie blue flag" and was a southerner in the sense of the word. But, he said, his relatives had served under the Stars and Stripes and several had shed their blood in France. "I think," said he, "it is time to forget the rebel yell. It is an echo of the past. It is wrong to raise the ghost of the negro question here."

Argues Conference Legal.
The Louisianaian argued that the conference was proper from a legal standpoint and went over some of the ground covered previously by Judge John S. Candler, of Atlanta. He read from a volume of reports of the supreme court of the United States a decision on a parallel case wherein the legality of the church gathering was upheld.

Judge Perry S. Rader, of Jefferson City, a delegate from the southwest Missouri conference, was recognized after Mr. White had talked three-quarters of an hour and announced that he supported the Lamar resolution. He declared himself, however, heartily in favor of unification.

Judge Rader, who is president of the board of missions, was emphatic in his declaration that there is a "double standard" in the legal question and that the question certainly would be thrown into the courts, resulting in feeling and bickering of widespread extent. He was in court when several of the Cumberland Presbyterian suits growing out of attempted unification with one of the larger Presbyterian bodies were decided, he said, and the cases are parallel for church property is involved in the proposed union.

Safer to Remove Doubt.
W. L. Dean, Huntsville, Texas, also spoke in favor of adoption of the Lamar resolution. He made it clear that he favored unification and under the proposed plan, but the legal question which had arisen made it safe to adopt the Lamar proposal and remove the doubt.

Bishop Isaac Lane, of Jackson, Tenn., 90 years old, the only living negro bishop of the sect aside by the Methodist Episcopal Church, when the body in the colored Methodist church, was seated with the bishops on the platform. At the forenoon session several of the delegates of the one of the upper galleries of the auditorium. Bishop Lane was ordained in 1870 by Bishop H. U. McTear and Bishop Robert Paine. He was introduced to the conference by Bishop Warren A. Candler, the presiding officer, after the minutes were read. Bishop Lane's appearance in the speaker's stand was greeted with loud applause from all parts of the great auditorium. He returned to his seat after acknowledging the applause with a smile and bow.

GEORGIANS PROMINENT IN DAY'S DISCUSSIONS.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.
Chattanooga, Tenn., July 2.—Georgia folks played a conspicuous part in the first day's deliberations of the special session of the Southern Methodist general conference here today. Both the North and South Georgia conferences were fully represented by their 30 delegates on several occasions they were to the fore in the proceedings of the body.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, as senior bishop of the Southern church, presided over the first sitting of the conference. Other Georgians prominent today were Dr. T. D. Ellis, Judge John S. Candler, Rev. J. P. King, and Bascom Anthony. Dr. Ellis, as chairman of the committee on rules, presented a resolution offering changes in the rules, and spoke to the paper. It was adopted unanimously.

Judge John S. Candler delivered an earnest speech opposing a resolution offered by Dr. A. J. Lamar, of Nashville, of the general conference, and with the request that the bishops secure the call for a special session next year on the ground that this session is of very doubtful legality and that it invites court proceedings over property titles.

Opposes Lamar Resolution.
Judge Candler ardently opposed the Lamar resolution and cited numerous court decisions to sustain his claims as to the legality of the session now in progress.

Rev. W. P. King secured a round of hearty applause when he arose to ask a question of law brought about by the humiliation of an opponent of unification who was speaking.

Dr. Anthony was sincerely applauded when he suggested to the conference that it would be better if the body would applaud less, giving more attention to prayer and meditation.

The full list of delegates from north Georgia is as follows: W. P. King, W. A. Shelton, C. C. Jarrell, E. F. Dempsey, J. H. Eakes, J. A.

Sharp, J. F. Yarbrough, S. P. Wiggins, John S. Candler, J. P. Shannon, Mrs. Luke G. Johnson, Sam Tate, Arthur H. Brooks, L. S. Arrington, Addison Maupin and J. T. Duncan.

South Georgia delegates present are T. D. Ellis, Bascom Anthony, C. R. Chalmers, J. P. Shannon, J. M. Cutler, N. H. Williams, J. M. Rogers, C. B. Lewis, J. B. Wright, A. Covington, L. E. Heath, F. J. Dudley and W. L. Harmon.

Behind the regular selected delegates from Georgia, there are more than 50 other Georgians present attending the special conference session, while others still are expected Thursday.

Legality Chief Topic.
Practically all of the first day was given over to a discussion of the legality of the called session. An adjournment for the day was taken in the afternoon, when no vote had been taken, and discussion will be continued through Thursday. It is considered that a vote on the Lamar resolution will show the strength of the adherents and opponents of the present proposed plan of unification.

It was decided after the afternoon Wednesday that the applause in support of any statement looking to any immediate adoption of the plan was gradually weakening. Some speakers declared that should the weakens continue through Thursday, it is more than probable that the plan will be defeated. The urgent appeals of speakers to avoid questions of doubtful legality and the probable court litigations are having weighty effect with many delegates.

Judge Dean, of Texas, a supporter of the present plan, upset the contention that the Lamar resolution is entirely legal because of acquiescence to paragraph 37-38 in the discipline. He admitted the ruling of courts to be that acquiescence is required, but said that more than 50 years constitute legality, but replied that never before had the disputed paragraph been used, nor had the acquiescence been made. He said that the constitutional changes must be.

SOUTH CAROLINA PASTORS ASK POSTPONEMENT.

Columbia, S. C., July 2.—Resolutions petitioning the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, southern conference, to postpone action on the proposed plan of unification "before all legal barriers against the legality of the special session have been removed" were adopted tonight by the South Carolina Methodist Pastors' school in session here.

NEW CEMETERY PERMIT SOUGHT.

sonally interested in the deal and that he could not lawfully vote in the matter.

Key to Present Petition.
Complaints concerning the cemetery that another permit granted by the other members of the board would be a valid one, on account of the fact that the board is not enjoined from issuing another permit, though the establishment of the cemetery under the old permit is enjoined, declared that former Mayor James L. Key would present the board with a written application.

The board voted to have a hearing July 11 on the new application, provided County Attorney Charles Shelton rules that the board is not enjoined from doing so under Judge Thomas' order.

Aldine Chambers and other property owners in the affected district, who oppose the cemetery plan, informed the board, however, that until the supreme court passes on the decision of Judge Thomas, the board will not take any action. Mr. Chambers declared that, although Judge Thomas refused to enjoin the cemetery on the ground that it would pollute the city's water supply by draining into the Chattahoochee river, and on the ground that no formal notice was given the public that the old permit was applied for, the cemetery plan was still in the case by reason of their having been incorporated in the bill of exceptions the opponents of the cemetery took to the supreme court.

Commissioner Turner and his associates appealed the decision because the establishment of the cemetery was enjoined. Opponents of the cemetery plan declared that Judge Thomas did not enjoin it on all the grounds insisted upon.

Mr. Chambers declared the biggest fight ever staged at a county board meeting was coming for July 11, if the board granted a hearing on a new application.

Two Women Hurt in Auto Mishap.

One for violating the dimmer ordinance, while eight cases were dismissed. Fines aggregated $369.

Forty-eight new cases were made during the day, 22 were arrested for violating traffic ordinance, 12 for speeding, six for reckless driving, six for violating the dimmer ordinance and two for operating an automobile while intoxicated.

Struck by Auto.
Miss Craft, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Craft, was knocked down and pinned beneath the wheels of an automobile in Beecher street.

The machine, which was operated by 14-year-old Miss Zeddie Lee Harrison, of 207 South Main street, College Park, was coming down Beecher street, when it struck Miss Craft, who was walking along the sidewalk in Beecher street toward the street.

Miss Craft's chest was crushed, her nose broken and she suffered dangerous wound on the head. Mrs. Lee Harrison's right leg and arm were badly mangled. She was carried to her home, where an x-ray examination of her skull Thursday.

Mrs. V. V. Barnett and Officer L. Zell, who investigated the accident, placed Miss Harrison under arrest. She was later released under a $2,000 bond, the police report shows.

In the car with Miss Harrison was a sister, Miss Frances Harrison, and Miss Ann Clark, 50 Virginia avenue, Hapeville. The car was attempting to turn into Beecher street from Lee street at the time of the accident.

Motor Cop in Smash.
Officer Higgins was hurt at Forsyth and Marietta streets at noon Wednesday when an automobile operated by Frank S. McNabb, of the American Optical company, struck the officer's motorcycle from the rear. The motorcycle was badly damaged.

Officer Higgins in his report to Captain M. V. Barnett, of the traffic bureau, stated that he had come to a stop on traffic signal at Forsyth and Marietta streets. When the signal was given him to proceed, McNabb's car crashed into his machine as he started off.

The following were fined Wednesday: F. C. Shuckoff, 30, 362 Capitol avenue, $5; C. W. Parkman, 37, 371 Capitol avenue, $5; O. Pope, 47, 232 Capitol avenue, $5; P. C. Davis, 22, 429 Lee street, $5; D. O. Green, 20, 212 Brown building, $5; M. K. Kirkland, 18, 612 East street, $5; W. R. Hendrix, 37, Yuma street, $5; Dock Stafford, 35, 372 Richardson street, $5; S. S. Aldridge, 37, 301 Capitol avenue, $5; Joe Turner, 36, 368 Chappel street, $5; Johnnie Eubank, 22, 21 West street, $5.

Arnold Protests Against Attacks On Constitution

Protest against the recent alleged tendency to make the American constitution a political toy was greeted with prolonged applause by more than 300 Georgia judges and Atlanta lawyers when voiced by Attorney Reuben K. Arnold at a banquet at the Biltmore hotel Wednesday night which closed the convention of superior court judges of Georgia.

The banquet was tendered to the visiting judges by the Atlanta Bar association and Atlanta Lawyers' club. Gordon Mitchell was toastmaster and E. E. Pomeroy, of the bar association, and Bond Almond, of the Lawyers' club, were in charge of arrangements.

Among the speakers were Judge W. D. Ellis, of Atlanta; Judge R. N. Harlan, of Louisville; Judge A. L. Franklin, of Augusta; President J. C. Davis, of the Lawyers' club; Justice Marcus Beck, of the supreme court; Judge W. F. Jenkins, of the American bar; Judge Samuel M. Sibley, of the United States district court, and Senator Walter F. George.

Arnold's Attack.
Attorney Arnold's denunciation of fanatic attacks on the constitution was made in connection with the resolution adopted by the judges in protest against the proposed constitutional amendment to override rulings of the supreme court.

Since 1914, he declared, there has been a mania in congress for tampering with the constitution and if it is tampered with, the result will be absorbing all powers of the states and of executive and legislative branches, throwing overboard the theory of checks and balances in government.

"One thousand constitutions may say that property can not be taken without compensation, but if it is taken without compensation, the result will be of no avail unless an independent and fearless judiciary is permitted to enforce that principle," the speaker declared.

Compares Constitutions.
Judge Jenkins, of the court of appeals, called attention to the fact that Mexico has a constitution which contains all of the best of the provisions of the constitution of the United States, having been modeled after it. "The difference lies in administration of those constitutional provisions by the courts," the judge asserted. "American liberty is preserved by wise judges who sit on the supreme court benches and shoot folly as it flies."

Judge Sibley advised that rules of practice, pleading and procedure be revised in order to prevent any just cause being thrown out of court on technical error. He sketched changes that have been made in federal court practices to protect citizens against the errors of their attorneys.

After the banquet, more than 100 of the visiting judges and lawyers went on a tour of inspection of the new Atlanta hotel, under guidance of Associate Manager Royer.

Will Limit Arguments.
By a virtually unanimous vote, the convention of superior court judges, in session Wednesday at the Fulton county courthouse, adopted a resolution changing rules of practice in the superior court to the extent that the number of counsel in all criminal cases, except capital cases, was limited to half hour to a side. Up to this time the limit has been one hour to a side.

The action of the judges, who fix rules of practice within limits of the statutes of the state, does not alter the discretion of judges, however, to grant additional time for argument in criminal cases, or other cases.

The judges also adopted the resolution providing that lawyers must secure an order from the judge of the superior court before taking court papers from the courthouse.

Oppose Overriding Courts.
A resolution, making it the sense of the convention that it was opposed to any changes in the constitution of the United States or of any state, whereby congress or the respective legislatures can, by a two-thirds majority vote, make valid a law declared unconstitutional by the national or state supreme courts, respectively, was also adopted. Judge Bell declared a dangerous movement was on foot to give congress power to nullify the decisions of the United States supreme court, and to the legislatures power to nullify the decisions of the state supreme courts in the respective states. The constitutions of the nation and the states should be interpreted by a nonpolitical institution, Judge Bell argued.

The judges visited Stone Mountain Wednesday afternoon.

Fourteen Minnesota farms have been equipped with electricity and are provided with every known electrically operated household or labor-saving device, without cost to the farmer, in a three-year test supervised by professors of the Agricultural college of the University of Minnesota to determine whether it is practical to use electricity on farms. The farms are in the Mississippi river valley, near Red Wing, Minnesota, and about twenty miles south of the Twin Cities. They are situated along a trail power line which measures 6.2 miles. The farm homes are being equipped with electric ranges, washing machines, mangles, lights, heaters, vacuum cleaners, toasters and other devices. In order to stage the exhibit in true Atlanta fashion, the committee in charge collected by subscription from 74 public-spirited citizens the sum of $3,000, which proved more than sufficient, allowing a refund after paying all expenses. Checks were mailed out Wednesday.

How Actresses Keep Young
(From The Argonaut.)
Wonderful Ellen Terry, who is now in her seventy-seventh year, is as full of vivacity as in her young days, and she takes a very active interest in everything around her. A short while ago there was a discussion on how actresses keep so amazingly young. "Well," said Miss Terry with a twinkle in her eye, "I think the reason is this. All women under thirty like to think they are actresses, and all actresses like to think they are under thirty."

In the fourteenth century spectacles, though fairly common, were articles of some cost, and frequently formed the subject of bequests in wills.

In parts of rural England there are still women who entertain a superstitious belief that they will improve their children's health by eating raisins and placing the stones on the baby's stomach.

A resolution, making it the sense of the convention that it was opposed to any changes in the constitution of the United States or of any state, whereby congress or the respective legislatures can, by a two-thirds majority vote, make valid a law declared unconstitutional by the national or state supreme courts, respectively, was also adopted. Judge Bell declared a dangerous movement was on foot to give congress power to nullify the decisions of the United States supreme court, and to the legislatures power to nullify the decisions of the state supreme courts in the respective states. The constitutions of the nation and the states should be interpreted by a nonpolitical institution, Judge Bell argued.

STATE SANITARIUM CALLED 'FIRETRAP'

Placing entire responsibility upon the shoulders of the legislature, a special senate committee Wednesday made public its report on conditions at the state sanitarium for the insane at Milledgeville, denouncing that institution, where 5,000 unfortunate are held, as a virtual fire trap. Unless the legislature takes immediate steps to remedy the situation Georgia at any time may wake up to find that her hospital for the mentally diseased has been the scene of one of the worst holocausts in history, it is stated.

The report was prepared by Senator T. S. Mason, of Hart county, under instructions of the special committee, after it had visited the institution and made a thorough inspection. The report tells of insane patients crowded together on cots, placed so close that there is barely room for the prisoners to step from their beds, and tells also of student nurses compelled, for lack of room, to sleep in the same ward with insane patients.

Visit Sanitarium.

The committee visited the sanitarium for its inspection in May. Those on the committee were Senators J. B. Chastain, of the 42d district, chairman; T. S. Mason, 30th, secretary; J. C. Beauchamp, 22d; Frank S. Loftin, 37th; C. H. Parker, 3d, and W. D. Kennedy, 49th.

The report absolves physicians, nurses and keepers in charge of the sanitarium of all blame for conditions, and commends them for the excellent work they have done under the situation.

Segregation Urged.

The report also stated that many children of feeble mind were found mixed with the adult insane patients. These children, it is urged, should be removed to the Home for the Feeble-Minded at Gracewood, where they would be given a chance, through proper treatment, to become normal adults.

Recommending that proper buildings and equipment necessary for the safety of the 5,000 patients be provided at once, the committee said that should this be refused, the blame for any future disaster would rest squarely upon the members of the present assembly.

STORM-SWEPT CITY PLANS REBUILDING

Lorain, Ohio, July 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—While this city continued today to dig itself out of the ruins wrought by Saturday's tornado, Governor Vic Donahey and a committee, appointed by him to aid in bringing order out of chaos and to rehabilitate, was to survey the ruined district comprising about 125 blocks and to devise means of rebuilding the city.

Order and systematic relief having been established, considerable progress is being made in cleaning up the wreckage. The two principal thoroughfares, Broadway and Erie streets, have been cleared and practically all streets have been opened to traffic.

Only in residences fit for habitation has been there any attempt to put things in order to make repairs. Most repair work has been only of temporary nature. Hundreds of demolished residences have not yet been explored for dead.

Work of clearing the ruins of the State theater, where authorities believe there may still be a few bodies, continues with the aid of steam shovels. The list of dead remained at 65 early today.

U. S. DESTROYER HITS REEF IN DENSE FOG

San Francisco, July 2.—The United States destroyer Lavallette struck a reef off Fort Ross, 54 miles north of the entrance to San Francisco harbor, in a dense fog an hour before dawn today, but reported to the naval radio at 7:53 a. m. that she was "off a reef" and was proceeding. Another report picked up by the marine department of the chamber of commerce said that she was undamaged.

NUISANCE TAXES NOW ABOLISHED

Washington, July 2.—The public purse will heave another sigh of relief at midnight tonight when further cuts in the nation's tax bill under the new revenue law become effective after the 30-day period stipulated from its enactment. The so-called nuisance taxes are abolished entirely while in the field of miscellaneous taxes generally material reductions take effect.

Included among the old law assessments which are eliminated outright are those on telegraph and telephone messages and the stamp tax of two cents per hundred dollars on drafts, checks and promissory notes. The tax on theater admissions of one cent for each ten cents charged is changed to apply only on admissions in excess of 50 cents.

The 5 per cent tax on jewelry articles, including musical instruments so classified, will apply only on those exceeding $30 in value, and on watches only of a value in excess of $60.

Although the law levies a new tax of 5 per cent on automobile chassis and bodies and motorcycles and 3 per cent on truck or wagon chassis selling for more than $1,000, and bodies selling for more than $200, it compensates in a measure by cutting in half the 5 per cent tax on automobile parts and accessories.

Another cut to become effective is that from two cents to one cent per hundred dollars in the stamp tax on sales of produce by boards of trade and similar trade marts.

Among articles freed entirely of the tax levied under the old law are: Pleasure boats and canoes, candy, hunting and bowie knives, stills, knives, daggers, sword canes, stills, brass and metallic knuckles, smoking stands, liveries and livery boots and hats, hunting and shooting garments, riding habits, yachts and motor boats not designed for trade, fishing or national defense, and X-ray films and plates.

3 CHINESE STUDENTS JOIN MERCER COLONY

Macon, July 2.—(Special.)—Additions to the Chinese colony on the Mercer university campus have been announced for the next fall term when three Orientals are expected to enroll, bringing the number of Chinese students at Mercer up to five.

Poon Kee Yip, student in commerce, has received word that Si Fung Chew and Yee K. Lew, of Canton, are sailing shortly for America and that upon their arrival they will enter Mercer. S. T. Wang, now of the Boston university, is expected to enter here in September.

Chi Sun Chan has just completed a course in pre-engineering, and has left for Columbia university, where he will take three years of engineering work, after which he will return to the east.

China, Scotland, Brazil, Peru, Japan and Canada were represented by students at Mercer in the year just closed.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 2.—Many of the candidate managers were working the "telegram from home" game on the delegates today. The disappointing feature of the outcome was that a lot of telegrams came correct.

The dictates of the finest traditions of a hundred years of democratic history, in the view of O. Max Gardner, chairman of the North Carolina delegation, are that high-strung home folks who send telegrams to their representatives in the national convention should pay the charges.

Of some 300 telegrams from all sections of the state reaching the North Carolina chairman this morning many came correct.

"Without expressing approval of the telegraphic referendum on the presidential nomination," Gardner said, "let us go on record as unalterably in favor of the principle of prepayment."

LAKE INVENTS BOAT TO DIVE UNDER ICE

Washington, July 2.—Simon Lake, the inventor, has been granted a patent by the government for a submersible cargo vessel designed to navigate under ice. The invention, designed for navigation of northern ice-covered waters, consists of a boat with a superstructure by which its navigator may dive under ice and rise again, breaking open a path for continued surface navigation.

ELDER STATESMAN OF JAPANESE DIES

Tokio, July 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Prince Masayoshi Matsukata, one of the two genro or elder statesmen of the Japanese empire, died this evening. He was 89 years old.

Matsukata returned to Tokio about two months ago, much recovered from the serious illness which caused his death to be reported last March. At that time, after the physicians had pronounced him dead and the nation had gone into mourning, the former premier slowly revived. He previously had been reported dead in the earthquake of last September.

JACKSON KIWANISANS INDORSE ROAD BONDS

Jackson, Ga., July 2.—(Special.)—A state bond issue for paved roads was indorsed by the Kiwanis club of Jackson at the weekly meeting Tuesday night. The club goes on record as favoring paved highways for the entire state, but did not recommend any given amount of bonds for any particular plan.

The vote on the question followed a general discussion of good roads, in which several of the members of the club took part. Among the speakers were S. P. Nichols, Hugh Mallett, D. P. Settle, Judge H. M. Fletcher, Colonel W. M. Watkins and others.

J. L. Lyons, representative from Butts county, was present and manifested interest in the discussion and recommendation of the club.

PANAMA CANAL TOLLS
$24,290,963 FOR YEAR

Panama, July 2.—Traffic through the Panama Canal for the fiscal year just ended set a new record. Vessels passing through numbered 5,230 and the tolls were $24,290,963, or 38 per cent greater than the total for the last fiscal year. The number of vessels passing from the Atlantic to the Pacific was 2,740, paying tolls of $11,709,194 as compared with 2,490 going in the other direction with tolls of $12,491,769.

The month of June had the lowest figures for the fiscal year with 371 transits and $1,702,021 tolls.

SENATOR REED FIRES ANOTHER M'ADOO BLAST

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—If William G. McAdoo receives the democratic nomination for president, "his defeat in this state (Missouri) is as certain, as inevitable as that the sun shall arise and set upon election day," said Senator Reed, of Missouri, in a statement issued from his sick room here today.

The statement, replying to one made in New York last night by David Ladd Rockwell, campaign manager for Mr. McAdoo, said the people of Missouri "will not sanction the trial of Mr. Doherty for a high crime against the United States government and at the same time elect Doherty's attorney to the high office of president of the United States."

McAdoo Not State's Choice.

"I solemnly state to the members of the convention," Senator Reed said, "that Mr. McAdoo is not the choice of the democrats of Missouri for president; that if he is nominated, his defeat in this state is as certain, as inevitable as that the sun shall arise and set upon election day."

Replying to Mr. Rockwell's statement that charges preferred by Senator Reed against Mr. McAdoo had been found upon investigation "to be absolutely without foundation," the Missouri senator said:

"The fact is I never made a charge against McAdoo which was disproved or which can be disproved. Indeed, nearly everything I had to say about him was based upon his own admission which he was forced to make in reply to charges advanced by others."

The senator's statement reviewed charges which he previously has made against Mr. McAdoo, said he owed no sympathy because of his illness, and asserted he would be "out in plenty of time to take a hand in the campaign."

MEANS AND JARNECKE UNABLE TO MAKE BOND

New York, July 2.—Sentenced to serve two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and fined $10,000 and $5,000, respectively, for conspiracy to release whisky illegally from distilleries, Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, and Elmer W. Jarnecke, his secretary, tonight were sent back to the Tombs, unable to furnish the $25,000 bail required pending appeal.

Overriding motion for a new trial, Federal Judge Wolverson imposed the maximum penalty. Counsel for Means and Jarnecke then filed a writ of error.

LA FOLLETTE MEET NOT CONTINGENT UPON DEMOCRATS

Cleveland, July 2.—Plans for the July 4 convention, which meets here to indorse or nominate Senator Robert M. La Follette for the presidency, are not contingent on any action of the democrats in New York, William H. Johnston, acting chairman of the conference for progressive political action, sponsoring the meeting, declared Wednesday.

Johnston disposed of the democratic platform in these words:

"Labor asked for bread and they gave us a stone."

Leaders of the progressive movement several months ago indicated that platform and candidates decided on by the two major parties would determine whether they would actively get into the 1924 presidential race with a candidate. Johnston's statement dispels all doubt on this question.

NEGRO SLAYER FLEES FROM MOBILE ASYLUM

Mobile, Ala., July 2.—Sylvester Powell, alias "Cyclops," notorious negro murderer, former "stool pigeon" of the federal prohibition forces here during the big liquor ring exposure, convicted of murder and given life, has escaped from the state insane asylum for negroes at Mount Vernon, near here. Powell was convicted last April and two weeks ago was sent to the insane asylum. He escaped last night by scaling the walls.

BOY THOUGHT DROWNED SENDS WIRE TO FATHER

Deland, Fla., July 2.—The father of Chandler Stith, 21-year-old youth who disappeared from a hotel at Daytona Beach about three weeks ago under circumstances which indicated drowning or foul play, has received a wire from his son that he is alive and well and in Spartanburg, S. C.

Young Stith also advised his father that a letter would follow with an explanation, at the same time wiring his fiancée, Miss Beth Brownlee, of Ridgecrest, N. C., of his being alive.

WALES TO VISIT RANCH IN ALBERTA THIS FALL

London, July 2.—The Prince of Wales will again visit his ranch in Alberta this fall, he announced at the Dominion dinner yesterday.

"Canada always has been a real tonic to me," he said. "I don't know what it is exactly, whether the air or the great spaces, but the fact remains, I first realized that when I went there a few months after the close of the great war. I went straight from four years of horror and confusion to a great clean country, full of hope and confidence in the future. I am sure there will be the same tonic this fall."

PROGRESSIVE PARTY TO BAR COMMUNISTS

Cleveland, July 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Communists will not have a part in the conference for progressive political action which meets here July 4, if the sentiment of the national committee, meeting here today, is carried out.

This committee agreed that the credentials of all delegates shall be critically inspected and that communists, when known to be such, shall not be seated. Each delegate, it was said, will have to represent an accredited organization.

can begin his raids on McAdoo when he wants to. Oklahoma is ready to jump to the Sage of the Wabash whenever Taggart beckons. Mississippi, likewise, stands ready to answer a call for volunteers.

Taggart is adopting the same tactics that Harry M. Daugherty used in breaking the republican deadlock four years ago when he nominated Harding.

Dogs in Manger.

Ralston may not make the necessary two-thirds. If he does not, some other candidate will be given a run.

McAdoo and Smith are both stubbornly holding on and are trying to retain their delegates indefinitely. They have been successful thus far, but the convention is now nearing the point where the delegates, anxious to get back home, are apt to break away and get on any candidate who seems to have climbing powers.

McAdoo is 185 ahead of Smith, but he is 47 short of a majority and 228-6 short of two-thirds. Smith lacks 232 of a majority and must gain 414 to have two-thirds.

Though he probably cannot be nominated himself, McAdoo still has far more than 307 votes needed to exercise a veto power under the two-thirds rule. Smith does not quite have that veto power but he probably could get help if he needed it in a pinch.

So, unless the McAdoo and Smith lines collapse, the nominee will have to be someone acceptable to both of them.

Ralston Has Advantage.

Davis will not be acceptable to McAdoo and this would seem to diminish the West Virginian's chances materially. Neither is McAdoo likely to accept Cox. If McAdoo finally quits, it probably will be in favor of either Ralston, Robinson or Glass. Ralston, coming from a state which is just now than either Virginia or Arkansas, which are always democratic, has a big advantage over these other two.

By a process of elimination, therefore, the situation is settling down in the vicinity of the Indiana senator. Ralston hasn't been nominated yet, but he has only a modest 32 votes registered after his name, but nevertheless he is actually closer to the nomination at this moment than any other candidate.

Aside from the spectacular but humiliating attempt of Bryan to stampede the convention, the day was another dreary one.

When Oklahoma went from Senator Owen back to McAdoo on the thirty-fourth ballot, McAdoo forces stopped the roll call a few minutes with a big demonstration. Mrs. McAdoo sat in a box during the rejoicing over the return of Oklahoma, waving at her husband's supporters as they marched in front of her. Twenty-eight states were in line. They bunched

CONVENTION OF ERRORS.

The lack of powerful, coordinating leadership has been most apparent at the democratic national convention. Sometimes it takes a fire or a funeral to break a struggling town or city away from its old weather-beaten moorings, in order that it may stretch its limbs and move forward at a more rapid pace.

That the democratic party needs something to bring its warring factions together, so as to cement its great principles untied behind a dynamic and constructive leadership that is impelled by motives other than personal aggrandizement or selfish ambitions, is one of the most outstanding features of the New York convention.

Something must be done and that quickly and firmly and fearlessly.

The principles of the democratic party, standing always as they do for the masses and for the moral and economic welfare of all the people of the nation, are too priceless and too sacred to have them sacrificed on the shoals of individual ambitions and selfish motives.

That the party is sorely in need of virile diplomatic and dependable leadership is unmistakable. The national convention of 1924 will go down in history as a record-breaker in the number of glaring errors and the amount of incoherence, chaos and confusion.

It has had no commanding general sufficiently masterful to combine warring elements and fearlessly stamping out a coterie of small state politicians who have rolled back in their first fling in the national arena.

What the democratic party needs is a rescuer. It is sailing desperately close to the rocks with a precious cargo of principles that should not and must not be wrecked.

BRITAIN IN INDIA.

When the British authorities in India placed Mahatma Gandhi in jail, it was thought that the force of the non-resistance movement had been broken. For a time it actually looked as if the non-cooperation of the masses of natives and the boycott of British goods and British institutions would lose its effectiveness.

Reports in the British press, however, indicate that the movement is gaining in strength and is overhauling in significance and importance anything that was hoped by its inciters.

A clergyman writing in the Manchester Guardian tells some astounding stories of incidents he witnessed in the Punjab and Sikh regions. The Akali movement there is directed to a return to the simplicity and original tenets of the Sikh faith.

For that purpose communal kitchens have been installed and the old priestly caste that has been administering church property has been asked to give up the lands to the community for use.

In many instances, however, the priests refuse to leave the lands and are upheld by the British authorities, who seem to be concerned most of all with maintaining order.

The clergyman correspondent tells of the attempts of the Sikhs to take possession of the lands which belong to them by virtue of ancient right.

Every day columns of marching Sikhs, their hands folded in prayer, chanting ancient religious hymns, march up to the land they claim.

Soldiers under command of British officers are at times forced to use their clubs in curbing the processionists. The writer says the scenes he witnessed cannot but create bad feeling for the future. The jails are crowded.

The movement is spreading over all India and the British are alarmed. They would prefer armed resistance. One conflict of arms would dispose of the whole movement. But to use violence against people, many of whom have served the empire on European battlefields to make the world safe for democracy, seems a distasteful matter to the better sentiments of the British authorities.

What will the outcome be? Will Britain give up her rule in the vast empire? This is not likely. But that momentous changes are on foot in the attitude of the British government toward subject peoples cannot be doubted.

The only remedy lies in the way of greater autonomy for India, a taking into the partnership of the British empire of the different Indian states.

If Britain had not adopted that attitude toward Canada and South Africa and Australia long ago, it seems altogether likely that these countries would have broken away from the British connection.

The road toward peace in India is indicated by past history. Greater freedom for the people, more participation in the affairs of administration by the natives. That's the only way out to prevent a catastrophe compared to which the Black Hole of Calcutta will be mere child's play.

A WISE CHANGE.

The proposal to change the date of convening of the general assembly from the third Wednesday in June to the first Wednesday in January is, to all appearances, one against which little, if any, argument can reasonably be advanced.

Since the days when the mid-summer sessions were inaugurated, conditions in Georgia have undergone remarkable changes. At that time, the farmer members of the legislature—composing a large majority of both houses—were better able to leave their plantations in midsummer, the "laying-by" time, than any other period of the year. Changes in agricultural methods, however, have largely altered this. New crops introduced in many sections as part of the program of farm diversification demand close attention throughout the summer; many of them are marketed in June, July and August. And cotton itself is not planted at the same time of year it used to be.

Many planters, therefore, find it easier to leave their homes in January and February, when practically the only work being done is the breaking of land, than they do in the summer.

Aside from this consideration of convenience, however, there are many reasons why this proposal should be carried through into actual fact.

Georgia, in effect, elects her governor, legislature and statehouse officers in September, when the primaries are held. If the candidates then elected have to wait until the following June before inauguration into office, it means that nine months are practically wasted before the officials elected by the people can do anything toward carrying out the pledges of the platform on which they won their offices.

In addition to this, the officials in office are compelled simply to mark time for that nine-month period, waiting for their administration to end, and for their successors to come in and begin the work for which they have been elected.

Representative Linder, of Jeff Davis, is the author of a bill in the house which will bring about this change. It has been approved by the house committee on constitutional amendments and will go before the legislature with strong support and the probability of passage.

Being a constitutional amendment, it will then have to be submitted to the people at the election in November for ratification. Sentiment throughout the state is strongly in favor of the change and there is little doubt the vote will be overwhelmingly for it.

It should pass and there seems little doubt of its ultimate enactment.

THE COTTON REPORT.

The figures on the condition of cotton in the state of Georgia, released by the government Wednesday, and showing this state had improved seven per cent since the first report a month ago, are most encouraging. The condition of 75 per cent of normal shows above everything else that the farmers of Georgia were not discouraged by the poor crop of last year, and have determined to bring this year's yield nearer to 1,000,000 bales.

Good weather has been in the farmer's favor, and it is this that has helped the crop offset the activity of the weevil.

The war is on in Georgia against the weevil, and the present condition of the cotton crop is splendid indication that the farmers of Georgia have not lacked the fighting spirit.

A million-bale crop for the state of Georgia will be the biggest blessing since 1920, and it is entirely within reason that this goal will be reached.

Nobly they follow

Proudly, yet all unconscious,
They marched to strains unheard.
Their deathless souls unconquered—
Honor and truth their word.

Old creaking mill, so grim and grey.
Time-beating with tolling age and strain.

A century old you are today.
And slower turn—transforming grain.

Nor felt the weight of labored years.

Each cog-wheel sang "kalang-kang." As merrily meshed the shafted gears.

Long since has weary grown, and pressed.

But still you groan, and weary, grind
From sun to sun; nor yet can find
Release from toil, till crumbling walls
More lowly bend—till faint and fall.

So the sign by the roadside said.

A tiny plot of ground
Bound close by rail-work rails;
On guard, 'mid black-charred ruins,
A ragged chimney stood—
A lone sentinel of home.

And nestled near the fence
A grave's its marker, wood;
And o'er it, trained with care
To shelter yet not hide,
A lone flower bloomed.

The air was filled with sweet incense.

So the sign by the roadside said.

NERVE REST.

How quickly the body loses its spring and zest and romping robustness after it has been whipped and whipped beyond its normal capacity to do.

It is the same with the nerves which form such a marvelous network throughout the body for its protection, as well as health.

If you keep your nerves up all the time and fail to give them their required rest, they, too, will revolt and then grow weak and inefficient.

We may be no older nor younger than our arteries, but we surely are no more efficient than our nerves.

Nerves have to have sleep. You have the columns of your nerves to put them to bed and humor them, feed them, and pay a great deal of attention to them, if you are to forget that you have them while they work and back you up in all of your great ordeals.

I have seen mothers mistreat their children, punish them for the smallest offense, until the children grew nervous and cross and unhappy.

That is what many do to their nerves. They keep slapping them, and saying unkind things to them until they, too, lose their patience and act abnormally.

Abuse the finest piece of machinery and it won't do its work right.

Keep your nerves rested. Give them the soothing influence of restful people and beautiful things, and cultivate a passion for the loveliness of the outdoors.

There is nothing so restful to your nerves as the beauties of nature. I can look at a wonderfully formed tree for hours and feel its medicine being distributed throughout my entire being.

If you rule your nerves you will never need any other ruler, for you will rule yourself—which is greater than ruling a nation.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, July 2.—Amid the squalor of foreign colonies jutting the East Side are thousands who could live in comparative ease and comfort if they were not so crowded together not because of companionship but because of food.

The foreign colonies are no different from any other poorer sections save in the matter of gastronomic tastes. The Americanization begins at Ellis Island when relatives equip new arrivals with clothes that do not distinguish them from natives.

But when it comes to tickling the palate the foreigner is at sea. He finds, outside the foreign colonies, the onions are boiled and so are the potatoes. The menu lacks zest. Instead of garlic and red pepper there are untempting sweets.

The alien taste rarely changes. If the immigrant is poor to his native strudel, he is a poor substitute and he cannot reconcile our taste to a heavy borscht. You find in London and Paris expatriates who mourn only because of the food.

Recently I went to a New York hospital. In the throes of delirium, he was pitifully crying for spaghetti and red wine. For a month he had been working for a truck but he had not been paid. At a hospital he was given what he craved and recovered.

The foreigner, too, is used to a light, healthy, porous sort of a bit of toast. Lunches are a heavy meal and here the process is reversed. Breakfast is a food jammer and luncheon a tiddit. The most impressive thing about a foreign colony are the cafes.

Tenement homes conform to American customs. Children play American games. Young girls bob their hair and youths wear the flashy outfit of the one flight up. But in cafes nothing is changed. One enters them to find himself back again in the old world so far as food goes.

The term "sap" may be applied to the country simoleon. It denoted a heavy set of adenoids, an expression of vacuity and a mentality that would not propel its owner out of a shelter. I was to pay him $5 a week from then on or something like that.

And live in old age plenty. I paid for many weeks before the awakening. The other day I read where he had tossed a pearl necklace over the footlights in a bunch of roses to a show girl. Then he went into bankruptcy.

The show girl was married to a chorus man. And perfectly happy.

New York's biggest department store on Fifth avenue is shortly to open. It is a marvel of up-to-date efficiency. The elevators open automatically. Purchases are delivered anywhere within Manhattan within a half hour and the head porter walks he did not care whether Mrs. Astor or her maid came into the establishment or not. They want quick service, cash sales. The store occupies an entire block and the shoe department occupies two floors. Rich people in New York do most of their shopping in this store. It is especially millinery and dresses. This store is to profit from the great middle class which will take a certain pride in telling neighbors of buying on "the avenue."

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN.

"How Good and How Pleasant."

In the hideous death valley of the Somme of 1916, among the corpses and shattered war material lay two men. Both wounded. The one German, the other English. The Englishman moaned for water and the German, who had been shot in the head, uttered all his anger. The general ought keep back his hatred by now and help the men who are trying to get out of the inferno. But the German would not do that. He was a soldier and he was a German.

There was a double wedding in Hampton the other day. A German, Otto Falkenberg, married Miss Ellen Martin, and Miss Martin's brother, Frank, married Fraulein Falkenberg. In the little Anglican church the two couples slowly walked up the aisle. From overhead came the sweet strains of the organ playing "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love." HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

SOME USE FOR THE BUGS IN GRANDFATHER'S CHEST.

Chronic bronchitis, recurring winter cough, bronchorrhea, bronchitis, pharyngitis—in other words why does grandfather cough and wheeze? Mainly because he has bugs in his chest. And why do the bugs get into grandfather's chest? Surely they don't pick on grandfather just because his chest is a little old and worn and crawl in to winter there without his consent. No. These "bugs" are as incapable of such conduct as are the dabbies and bogies in grandmother's conservatory. The microbes concerned are neither animals nor plants, but organisms sharing the attributes of both forms of life. There is just one objection to calling these disease germs "bugs"—it conveys a suggestion of active movement or travel, even of "lurking" about in quest of prey. Of course germs never do that. It is like that—outside of the romantic imagination of the ad writer. Germs never go anywhere unless they are carried there by some agency intentionally or accidentally. So far as the respiratory infections are concerned the carrier of the germs is usually human. But that's another story. Grandfather has bugs in his chest, however they got there, and the question before the house is, can we persuade some of the bugs to work for grandfather. Sure, when the germs are dead. These bugs are dead. It is a matter of respect—good and bad. It would be fine for grandfather if we could make good germs of his entire collection at one swell swoop, but experience has satisfied us that we can't kill off any considerable share of the bugs in grandfather's chest without damaging grandfather beyond repair, not with any known antiseptic or germicide, but by the use of a bacteriophage, the next best thing, that is, to raise grandfather's specific resistance power against the particular germs which are causing his bronchitis. In other words, we resort to a homeopathic principle, bacterin treatment, sometimes called bacterial vaccines, a treatment which consists in administering by injection under the skin or into muscle at intervals of measured numbers of the killed bodies of the germs which the bacteriologist finds responsible for the bronchitis. A hair of the dog that bites grandfather, you see.

The bacterin used in such a case must be prepared by the bacteriologist from the very strains of germs which are predominant in the cultures made from the sputum, for the use of ready-made "stock" bacteria would probably only arouse grandfather's resistance to strains of germs or bugs he hasn't got in his chest at all. Even pneumococci, the germs which cause pneumonia, many cases of bronchitis and other respiratory infections, have their specific action on each of the various strains of germs which are popularly called "pneumococci," but that is misleading because we ordinarily think of pneumonia as an organism which absorbs something, the fact that the skin can claim nothing about it. I merely say nothing, unless it is broken. There can be no argument about that. Your difficulty perhaps depends on the fact I am so fond of pointing out in popular education: the bacteriologist knows many things about physiology, hygiene and health which ain't so. The laity has unfortunately taken to the instruction provided by the newspaper makers, the quick doctors and other malfactors too seriously. Not only is the laity extensively misinformed, but the generally recognized abuse because I deny gullible people the privilege of assimilating food, drink or medicine through the "pores."

Atlantans Plan For Celebration Of July Fourth

BY LOY WARWICK.

Friday's the "Fourth." And Atlanta, with the rest of the nation, will recall and in turn celebrate the fact that it was just 147 years ago when General George Washington and a handful of public spirited citizens shook off the shackles of tyranny and oppression and donned the glad rags of freedom and democracy. Evidence that success crowned their efforts is found in the Library of Congress at Washington. It is known as the Declaration of Independence, and because the people of these United States realize what a job it was to carry out the wording of that document, because they realize it wasn't child's play to make John Bull say "Uncle," and because they realize they are living in the greatest country in the world, they celebrate.

J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, who will deliver an address at the Fourth of July celebration at Kennesaw Mountain.

Noise To Show Joy.

Friday morning will be ushered in with a great deal of noise, as is the custom. Firecrackers will be in vogue again, and for the one and only time a year sleepy people will smile when they hear the shrill blasts of the factory whistle. They know it's a holiday, and that the man on the other end of the whistle is expressing patriotic enthusiasm and not summing laborers to work. Everybody is glad that "she waves o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave," and most everybody is going to celebrate in his own humble way. Even if the urge is not felt to blow off firecrackers, or parade, or attend a public celebration, a citizen can sit in the cool shade of the front porch with his radio and thank his stars and stripes for a holiday.

C. F. von Herrmann, local weather prophet, announced that the sun would shine on the "Fourth," and predicted "cool and breezy weather." Every thing looks like a "Glorious Fourth."

Exercises at Piedmont.

Impressive exercises will be held at Piedmont Park under auspices of the Atlanta Woman's club, featured by a historical pageant, which begins at 5 o'clock. Judge Marcus Beck, Governor Clifford Walker and Mayor Walter Sims will be principal speakers. Another patriotic demonstration will be staged at Kennesaw Mountain, when ground will be broken for a Confederate Memorial tower to be built by the United Daughters of the Confederacy. More than 10,000 visitors are expected to attend. The majority of Atlanta business houses will be closed during the entire day, according to announcement by F. Atlanta Retail Merchants' association, and employees of right local building material firms will be given holidays over Friday and Saturday. All banks and public buildings will be closed.

Another feature of interest will be the horse show sponsored by the Governor's Horse Guard at Piedmont Park, preceding the pageant.

Woman's Club Exercises.

The woman's club exercises are scheduled to begin at 5 o'clock and will be featured by participation of former aliens, who have become naturalized citizens of this country; ceremonies will open with a band concert in which the Tech High band and city band will take a prominent part. Preceding the program a spectacular procession will enter the park from the rear and proceed to the peace monument, where the exercises will be held.

Veterans of the war between the states, the Spanish-American war and the world war and representatives of the navy and marine corps are expected to march in the procession. The delegation will be headed by Major J. B. Conyers, marshal of the day, and Major Charles H. Cox, adjutant general of Georgia.

Judge Beck, Governor Walker and Mayor Sims will be speakers of the day. Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the Woman's club, will preside. Dr. C. B. Wilmer will offer the invocation.

Gladys Hanson, one of the most distinguished stars of the American stage, will be the central figure in a spectacular tableau. Miss Hanson will represent Columbia and will be surrounded by thirteen young ladies representing the 13 original states. Miss Jane Sharp will represent "Liberty," while "Uncle Sam" will be portrayed by George Butler. Miss Ernestine Hornady will act as official page for the occasion. The young ladies representing the original states are Misses Florence Obeart, Roberta King, Florence Smith, Gwen Barker, Florence Graham, Marion Barker, Rebecca Bivings, LaFon Dancy, Willette Carlisle, Josephine Turner, Willette Manning, Frances Jackson and Edna Mae West.

The organizations participating in the procession, which will move promptly at 5 o'clock, will be: Daughters of the American Revolution, General David Shanks and staff, Colonial Dames, Daughters of American Colonists, Daughters of the Founders, Daughters of the Confederacy, Sons of Confederate Veterans, War Mothers, Women's auxiliary, American Legion, Overseas Girls, Red Cross nurses, City Federation of Women's Clubs, W. C. T. U., League of Women Voters, P. T. A., Association, Y. M. C. A., Business Women's league, men's civic clubs, women's chamber of commerce, Pioneer Women, Y. W. C. A., Junior league, Witches club, Boy Scouts will act as aides and couriers to the marshal of the day and Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls will assist the committee in releasing hundreds of patriotic balloons, as the exercises close.

Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, chairman of arrangements, is being assisted by Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, Mrs. J. D. Evans and members of the American in citizenship department of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Line of March. The line of march is as follows: Liberty and Uncle Sam, Band, Mrs. Norman Sharp, president Atlanta Woman's club, Mayor Sims, Stevenson, chairman of arrangements, W. E. Price-Smith, Mrs. J. D. Evans, co-chairmen; Judge Marcus Beck, General David L. Shanks and his officers, Miss Gladys Hanson, Columbia, and the thirteen original states.

Mrs. J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, will be escorted by D. A. R. Mrs. W. S. Coleman, regent Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R. Mrs. J. T. Stevenson, president city federation; Mrs. H. H. McCall, national D. A. R.; Mrs. J. M. High, Columbia Dames; Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, American Legion, League of Women Voters, Nurses in uniform, President P. T. A., Boy Scouts, Military organizations, Naturalized citizens, stand.

Citizenship committee led by past president of Atlanta Woman's club, business organization, other groups. Flowers deposited at peace monument.

SUMMER RESORT WEATHER IS SEEN FOR CITY TODAY

Continuation of summer resort weather for Atlanta through today is promised by C. F. von Herrmann, weather bureau meteorologist. Wednesday's temperatures reached its maximum at 82 degrees, but the most part remained under 80 degrees. The maximum for today will be not greater than 82 degrees, it was forecast.

Fair weather for the day also seemed in prospect, as no low pressure areas were moving toward Atlanta Wednesday. Thunderstorms are possible, however.

RAILROADS REFUSE TO REDUCE RATES FOR PEACH CROPS

Macon, Ga., July 2.—(Special.)—Railroads handling peach shipments from Georgia have refused to grant an emergency reduction in freight rates, according to information received today by the Georgia Peach Growers' exchange. The reduction was asked at a meeting of the exchange held here last week attended by freight traffic representatives of the railroads.

It was pointed out by railroad officials in their answer today that they could not consistently grant reduction in this territory, as that would necessitate the same action in all fruit and vegetable sections, which are now said to be clamoring for reductions.

MELON CASE DECISION EXPECTED THIS WEEK

Decision will not be handed down on petition of the Atlantic Coast Line and other railroads for a permanent injunction restraining enforcement of the embargo on Florida watermelon shipments until all three federal judges before whom the hearing was held have signed the papers in regard to the case, according to announcement by Judge Samuel H. Sibley Wednesday.

The papers have been sent to Judges W. H. Barrett, of Augusta, and Nathan P. Bryan, of Jacksonville, Fla. Decision is expected Friday or Saturday.

The Atlantic Coast Line, together with the Seaboard Air Line railway, and the Georgia, Southern and Florida railroads, contended that the embargo placed on Florida watermelons by Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, state veterinarian, was established without proper authority. Dr. Bahnsen alleged that his order was promulgated because of the danger of tick infestation from the pine straw used in shipping the melons.

MISTAH SPEAKAH

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Mistah Speakah—

"The gentleman from—"

Mistah Speakah, referring to the proposed repeal of the house rule against smoking on behalf of those gray-clad heroes who marched behind Lee and Jackson; on behalf of those widows who, before 1861, married those gray-clad heroes; on behalf of the suffering and needy among those gray-clad heroes, I plead for repeal of that rule.

Every cigarette smoked—even of the most inexpensive variety—adds one mill to the pension funds of the state. Every cigar—even if only a tooter—adds a couple of mills. And have we, as members of this patriotic body, any right to stop our smoking for three hours each day, when that smoking is nothing, in effect, but a gray cloud wreathing our own sacrificial heads for the good of the gray-clad heroes of the Valleys of Virginia?

Representative Frank Holden, of Clarke, is making a vigorous campaign for congress from the eighth Georgia district. Holden says that some of his opponents have said he is too young for the place. He answers that though he admits he appears not much over 21, he is in reality 31, and that lots of famous Georgia statesmen were elected to congress at that age.

After all the attention that members of the Georgia legislature have given to the reports from the convention in New York, to say nothing of the work of the delegates in Madison Square Garden themselves, it would be an awful thing if the nominee finally should fail to defeat Mistah Coolidge.

Anyway, the democrats in New York have unmistakably shown their determination not to keep cool with Coolidge, or anyone else.

Representative Bennett, of Dodge, has not yet gathered together his glee club which, at last year's session, used to indulge in song before each day's session. Possibly Mr. Bennett thinks it not dignified enough for a legislator to do the public service commission to become a song leader, even a legislative one.

Mistah Speakah—

More we adjourn—

BILL PROVIDES FOR EXTENSION OF CITY LIMITS

Under provisions of a bill for an amendment to the charter of the city of Atlanta, introduced in the house of representatives by the Fulton county delegation Wednesday, the city limits would be extended in several directions.

The amendment embraces territory near the federal prison in the eleventh ward, a strip of land along the Southern railroad tracks, out Marietta street, and in the fifth ward, and the newly created residential subdivision of Morningside, in the ninth ward.

The bill was referred to the committee on municipal government.

Of 678 possible occupations listed by the united census bureau, all but 33 have been taken up by women.

U. S. WORLD FLYERS NOW AT AMBALA

London, July 3.—The American around-the-world flyers have arrived at Ambala, India, according to a dispatch from Simla to the London Times.

The message states that one machine has been having cylinder trouble and that a new cylinder is being rushed by airplane to Ambala from Lahore.

Calcutta dispatches quote a report that Major Martin will resume command of the round-the-world flight when the airmen reach Paris. Ambala is in the Punjab, about 450 miles from Allahabad, the last stopping point of the airmen.

FAST PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED; THREE ARE HURT

LANCASTER, Pa., July 2.—The "Broadway Limited," one of the Pennsylvania railroad's fast passenger trains from New York to Chicago, was wrecked tonight one mile east of this city, eight of the nine cars leaving the rails. Two women passengers and one member of the crew were slightly hurt. One of the women received minor lacerations and another a sprained wrist.

A special train took the passengers to Harrisburg, where they were picked up by the second section of the "Broadway Limited" and continued their journey after a delay of four hours. The wrecked train carried a total of 72 passengers.

The accident occurred at 6:04 p. m., at the cutoff where through trains are sent around this city. It is believed to have been caused by a broken truck on the forward car.

Five sleeping cars, a diner, mail car and a combination parlor and baggage car left the rails, but all remained upright. The two westbound tracks were blocked for several hours after the wreck.

"NATIONAL HOTEL REVIEW" PRAISES ATLANTA-BILTMORE

Fifty pages in the current issue of the National Hotel Review, one of America's leading hotel journals, are devoted to the new Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

The front cover of the issue is given to a large picture of the garden entrance of the Biltmore. On the inside pages appear columns of interesting descriptive data, including 39 photographs.

In a foreword written by William Candler, vice president and treasurer of the Atlanta Biltmore, he says: "All native Atlantans are traditionally proud of their city and I am proud to be one of her sons, because of what she has always stood for, her attainments, her ideals. And now I am prouder of Atlanta."

than ever, for in my opinion she is a bigger, more completely modern city than ever before. The civic improvement was accomplished when the Atlanta Biltmore opened its doors. I felt a sense of personal pride in this magnificent hotel, because of my association with Mr. Bowman in this project. But if I had had nothing to do with it, I should have felt like all other Atlantans feel, a sense of proud joint possession of a magnificent hotel that stands in the forefront among all the hotels of the world."

The Rules of Golf

—By—
Innis Brown

PLAYING IN TURN.

Most all golfers know that the ball further from the hole is to be played first, yet there are some ramifications and variations of this rule that are not generally understood. In a single match, for instance, if the player whose ball lies nearest the hole plays first, the opponent can, if he chooses, recall the stroke, and compel the player to play it over. In a three-ball or four-ball match, or medal play, the stroke cannot be recalled, except that in a three-ball or four-ball match on the putting green, the ball further from the hole is supposed to be played first. Yet even in this latter case, the two partners of a side can decide the order in which the balls of the side are to be played.

This is one of the very old rules of golf, that the ball further away is to be played first, and the exceptions noted above are developments that have arisen from time to time.

Explanations.

In a four-ball match A's ball lies within two feet of the hole in 4, while his partner B's is 20 feet away in 3. They decide to have A putt first to try to insure a 5, so that B can then try for a 4 at the expense of maybe running past the hole in case he fails to hole out.

This is permissible. In a three-ball match A plays, while C's ball was really further from the hole, his approach shot stopping dead to the hole. Can C or the third player, B, compel A to recall the stroke and play it over? No, supposing the stroke was played before reaching the putting green.

Coaching School Idea Growing

BY WALTER CAMP.

New York, July 2.—If the "young idea" does not learn how to "shoot" in his college athletic days it certainly will not be the fault of the various coach colleges which are running the summer throughout the nation. The University of Illinois, which really started these coaching schools, now has enrolled as actual students in its summer courses 450 men. And these men represent 38 states and two foreign countries. As the representative of the University of Illinois Athletic association says: "The majority of these men are coaches of experience who have come to sit at the feet of the Illinois varsity coaches and learn how they turned out championship teams."

There are probably a dozen other schools of this kind operating, and their output will be in the neighborhood of 5,000 improved coaches.

Here is another good one—if you believe it. "Experts in the technicalities of golf decided that the long driving stroke would lose distance by the adoption of larger lighter ball, but the average player who shoots from 90 to 120 would not suffer. With the change of the ball, the lighter ball will go further." But there are a good many thousands of those 90 to 120 men who are distinctly "iron horses" and don't expect to be shown.

ANNVILLE EAST WINDER.

Sparksburg, Md., July 2.—Hammering Signan to all corners of the lot and taking advantage of mental lapses and misuses on the part of the Spartans, the Annsville Tourists took the last game of the series from Kelly's men by the score of 12 to 4. The visitors collected fifteen hits, many of these going for extra bases. The features of the game were home runs by Holland, Wilson and Miller, the Spartans scoring their credit clutch in the seventh after Edwards had tripled. Holland's homer in the first scored McCross ahead of him.

Three More Drivers Enter Auto Races at Lakewood

The greatest program of turf events on an Independence Day at Lakewood was assured a week ago with entry of 40 horses. Close on the heels of announcement of this big list came a total of five Gate City contenders for the money. The three to come in yesterday were Walt Williams, pushing a Stutz; Bob Luton, with a new Marmon Special; and Arthur Tappan,

One of the biggest crowds ever to pack Lakewood is expected for Friday night. The biggest crowd ever to watch the statement last night from Lakewood officials that the fifteenth speed fiend has entered the auto races, assuring their success.

With the big racing program. Horse races will start at 12:30 o'clock, to be followed later in the afternoon by the whirl of the death-defying auto drivers.

There will be five harness races with not less than four entries in each event. All will be run under the rules of the National Trotting association, with the three heat plan.

SHOE SOLE MATERIAL DISCUSSED BY LEVY

Addresses by L. W. Craddock, of Lynchburg, and Charles D. Levy, of Montgomery, were principal features of the Wednesday night's session of the Southern Shoe Wholesalers' association, held at the Biltmore hotel.

Mr. Craddock, a prominent wholesale shoe dealer, used for his subject, "The Profit Is the Turnover," while Mr. Levy, president of the Levy Shoe company, spoke at length on various phases of shoe manufacturing, stressing the numerous soles now being placed on the market.

Wednesday night's session was the closing event of the first day's meeting, the annual convention coming to an end tonight with a dinner at the Biltmore.

Sims Welcomes Delegates. Mayor Walter Sims welcomed the delegates to the city Wednesday morning. Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of North Avenue Presbyterian church, delivered the invocation. J. K. Orr, prominent Atlanta shoe dealer, introduced Mayor Sims.

Delegates were guests at a luncheon at the Piedmont Driving club and in the afternoon were taken to Stone Mountain on a tour of inspection of the memorial. L. M. Taylor, of New York, made the opening address of the convention.

Mr. Levy's address was a thorough discussion of shoe soles, manufacture of various soles, and the general trend of preference for shoe soles. "Fibre soles," he said, "bearing the names of 'Pascos,' 'Ukides,' 'Paracord,' 'Gleasonite,' and others, have appeared on the market lately; have been adopted and even featured by manufacturers of work shoes and, to a lesser extent, by makers of men's dress shoes. The consumer, likewise, who has worn shoes originally soled, is now ready to attest to the claims of producers that it is more healthful, more comfortable, more durable and more economical in every way than its unchallenged predecessor of centuries standing—the leather sole.

Assumes Neutral Attitude. "It is my purpose," he continued, "to assume a perfectly neutral attitude towards both products. However, I am supposed to touch upon the faults and virtues of each so that in the discussion to follow we may determine whether fibre soles are a passing fad or whether their present popularity will prove permanent."

Continuing, Mr. Levy said, "If necessity is the mother of invention—and it is—then we who assess an intimate knowledge of the shoe and spongy leather that oftentimes finds its way into the soles of shoes deny that a crying need existed for a substitute embodying most of the best qualities of good leather? Furthermore, after such a material has been discovered, must we not also admit that it would contribute much in a scientific way to the industry of shoe making, as well as reduce to a considerable extent the enormous sum expended annually in replacing shoes that do not give reasonable or satisfactory wear?"

Mr. Levy dealt at length with the "good qualities of both fibre and leather soles, pointing out certain facts and merits of both sole materials.

Following this address the delegates engaged in a discussion of the merits of various sole materials, adjourning after a short period.

Mr. Levy will leave the city Thursday morning for his home in Montgomery.

SCHOOL BOOK BOARD MEASURE IS DRAFTED

By unanimous vote the sub-committee of five named by the house educational committee to draft a substitute bill for that introduced by Representative Carl Gues, of DeKalb county, which called for the creation of a school book board, Wednesday night agreed on a new measure.

The new bill, with the exception of a few minor amendments, carries the same provisions as the original measure. It calls for appointment of a book committee, consisting of three members and free to select their own educational activities in the state, who will make a thorough survey of Georgia towards furnishing free books and free tuition for a period of nine months each year to school children, and also to cooperate in recommendations and suggestions for the best method for the state to pursue in reaching this end.

It is thought probable by members of the sub-committee that the house committee will meet next Monday or Tuesday to consider the new measure, the place of meeting to be announced by the chairman.

TAX EQUALIZATION FIGHT SCHEDULED

The thirty-fifth district, and Senator Lanford, of the fifteenth. The measure calls for amendment of the charter of the city of Atlanta, providing for construction of viaducts over the railroad tracks at Pryor street and Central avenue.

Plans Normal School. The only other business which was carried on in the upper house Wednesday was recommendation of two local measures by the committee on county and county matters. One was a house bill, providing for the establishment of a normal school for teachers, to be located at Statesboro, to be known as the Georgia Normal school, and to include organization, plans and equipment of the District A. and M. school. It was referred to the University of Georgia committee.

While the state senate has before it for consideration Thursday, repeal of the state tax equalization law, it is uncertain what bills will come up in the house, where a number of minor measures are waiting final action.

When both houses adjourn today, they will stand adjourned until Monday at 11 o'clock, a joint resolution providing for the holiday over the fourth of July and the week ending being adopted at the Wednesday session.

Practically all of the three-hour session in the house on Wednesday was devoted to the consideration of a child labor amendment to the federal constitution. Final vote on this proposal was 170 to 3, all members voting in favor of the amendment. Mrs. Viola Ross Napier, of Bibb county, and Representatives Pafford of Lanier and Stanford of Lowndes. Opposition was based almost entirely upon two grounds, the feeling that the amendment imposed upon state's rights and that it was entirely too drastic. The proposed amendment gives congress the power to regulate, control or forbid all labor of all persons less than 18 years of age.

Two-Year Term. A bill by Representative Stanford, of Lowndes, which came over as unfinished business last year, providing that the term of office of the state veterinarian shall be for two years, instead of an unlimited period as at present, was passed. The bill provides that the commissioner of agriculture shall have the power to name the state veterinarian every two years.

A senate bill, providing that railroad charters shall carry a specific date of expiration, was tabled.

Among new bills introduced in the house Wednesday was one relating to the general tax law with reference to occupation tax on representatives of foreign corporations. Another bill appropriates $75,000 for a new dormitory at the state college for women; another would repeal the compulsory cattle dipping law; another provide for revision of the state fish and game laws.

HUSBAND-SLAYER, FREED BY PARDON, TO MARRY AGAIN

Issuance of a marriage license to Mrs. Stella Abbott, convicted of manslaughter in the killing of her husband, "Dredged," John Abbott, Fire Chief Cody's chauffeur, after a sensational trial in 1919 in Fulton superior court, revealed Wednesday that Mrs. Abbott has arranged a new venture in matrimony. She is to wed Earl Palmer Glover, cigar and soda man, whose store is located at North avenue and Spring street.

Mrs. Abbott, seen at her home at 505 Highland avenue Wednesday afternoon, admitted the wedding plans. She refused to give any details as to when the marriage will take place. Her age and that of her affianced were given as 35 years.

Mrs. Abbott drew a term of four years for the slaying of her husband, who was pardoned after serving a part of the term at Milledgeville.

Mrs. Abbott contended her husband was killed in a scuffle over a pistol. The shooting followed a quarrel between the pair over a conversation between him and a young woman. Mrs. Abbott was granted a new trial, but was convicted the second time.

"Getting Gertie's Garter." (At the Atlanta.)

The Baldwin Players, John Little, Miss Mary Method and the rest, seem to be getting such a much of fun out of the presentation of this week of "Getting Gertie's Garter," the sparkling Broadway comedy hit, as have the hundreds of Atlantans who have laughed until they almost cried at the deliciously funny situations and sparkling dialogue in Emmett Flynn's play.

All this week it has played to capacity houses at the Atlanta theatre, and additional hundreds of Atlantans are expected to witness it at the remaining performances.

"High Cost of Loving." (At the Lyric.)

A special Fourth of July matinee tomorrow gives Atlantans six more chances to see the Lew Fields comedy which the Lyric theatre this week.

Two performances are to be given daily the rest of the week, beginning today.

"The High Cost of Loving" gets its big comedy punch from the fact that a bunch of self-righteous Puritan leaguers are found to have a dark chapter in their lives. None suspects the other until too late.

Hodges' Musical Comedy. (At the Forsyth.)

There's very little plot, but a wealth of specialty numbers in the presentation this week of "Pretty Baby," sparkling musical revue being offered by Jimmie Hodges and members of his musical comedy company at the Forsyth theatre.

Jimmie Hodges has never been funnier than he is this week, and Miss Bonnie ToBeau, the pretty leading lady of the company, is seen to her best advantage.

Loew's Vaudeville. (At Loew's Grand.)

"Flashlight Scandal," an act with three men and two women with excellent voices, is proving one of the most popular harmony offerings heard in Atlanta this year. Shannon and Van Horn are the original "nut" comedians, and their act is a veritable riot of fun. Johnson Brothers and Johnson are minstrel comedians who are scoring quite a hit. Two other splendid acts are on the bill, and in addition Tom Mix is seen in his latest thriller, "Mile-a-Minute Romeo."

Zane Grey's Story. (At the Howard.)

The first motion picture to be done entirely in natural colors is the Zane Grey Paramount production, "Wanderer of the Wasteland," which is playing all this week at the Howard theatre. "Wanderer of the Wasteland" was produced in the original locale described in the book, the deserts of Arizona, by Irvin Willat, Jack Holt, Kathryn Williams, Billie Dove and Noah Beery are featured in the principal roles.

"Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model." (At the Metropolitan.)

William Orlandom, who is a member of the cast of Goldwyn's Emmett Flynn production, "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," now at the Metropolitan, is a unique figure in the theatrical history of Denmark as well as of America. The Orlandoms of Copenhagen, Denmark, were stage folk for generations, and the name is known through all of that and neighboring countries. William Orlandom is not only the first and only member of his family to "leave the old country," but now is the sole surviving Orlandom. When he first came to America he could speak only Swedish. Still that did not keep him from the American stage. He created the German comedian—by giving his lines in German and broken English. Some of his recent appearances were in "Boys Will Be Boys," "Doubting for Romeo," "Souls for Sale," and "Reno."

GEORGIA ENGINEER KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

Waycross, Ga., July 2.—Roy L. Pollard, one of the youngest and most popular engineers on the third division of the Atlantic Coast Line railway, was killed instantly today in an accident at Lakeland. His brother, Wade Pollard, of Waycross, who has just returned from Lakeland, reports that Roy was overhauling, and on rounding a curve the engine was struck by a box car. Other members of the crew jumped to safety, but Pollard remained at his post. With the lever in reverse and the throttle partly open the engine ran backwards, took the derail switch and farther on plunged into the side block where the tender was stripped of its trucks. He will be buried at Kansas City, Mo.

Mae Busch. (At the Metropolitan.)

Goldwyn Pictures corporation announces that it has signed Mae Busch to a new contract for an extended period of time as a reward for the excellence of her characterization of Polly Joy in Emmett Flynn's "The Beautiful Cloak Model," showing at the Metropolitan theatre. Enrico Leide has arranged special music for the picture.

"The Reckless Age." (At the Rialto.)

Hayden Stevenson is back to his old tricks. The prize fight promoter of the "Leather Pushers" is now a promoter of publicity in "The Reckless Age," Reginald Denny's new starring vehicle, now playing at the Rialto theatre.

"The Hunchback." (At the Paramount.)

Lon Chaney, admittedly the finest interpreter of unusual character roles on either stage or screen and whose work as the fake cripple in "The Miracle Man" stands out as a bit of remarkable action to say nothing of his other wonderful impersonations, has added another striking characterization to his already long list in his role in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," at the Paramount theatre.

DRY AGENTS RAID 7 ROAD HOUSES NEAR SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., July 2.—Frequent complaints lodged with the United States district attorney's office and with W. T. Day, chief of federal prohibition agents in this territory concerning the alleged violations of the dry laws and the practice of vice in various forms at the road houses located on thoroughfares adjacent to Savannah, resulted in the raid of seven of these places last night.

Cases have been made against Ed Jordan, proprietor of the "Savannah" on the White Bluff road; Mrs. Ed Jordan and T. W. Gorman; F. G. Sheppard, proprietor of the Sheppard road house on Water Road, and R. N. Sheppard; J. A. Dulin, proprietor of Ogeechee Road house, Ogeechee road, and a number of others.

The car turned over twice, and the entire load of lumber fell on Strickland, causing instant death. He was a popular citizen of the county and belonged to a prominent family in this section. Surviving are his widow, who was a Miss Fordham, and several children.

Miss Seiz Weds R. G. Shaw At Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Ruth Louise Seiz and Raymond G. Shaw was a beautiful event of Wednesday evening at "Rosedale," the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Charles Seiz, on Peachtree road.

The double ring ceremony, which took place at 8:30 o'clock, was performed by Rev. J. Spore Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Handsome palms, foliage plants and graceful ropes of similar formed the altar in the living room and standing in relief were pedestals of Easter lilies and cathedral candelabra burning white tapers.

The reception rooms were artistic in their arrangement of potted plants, palms and baskets filled with various colored summer flowers.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. J. H. Strickland, accompanied by Mrs. Harry LeRoy, sang "At Dawning" and "Because." The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" announced the approach of the wedding party.

Wedding Attendants. The bridesmaids and groomsmen descended the stairway in pairs. First enter were Mr. and Mrs. Emil Charles Seiz, Jr. They were followed by Miss Lucile Cobb and J. M. Shelton.

Mrs. Seiz and Miss Cobb wore beautiful gowns, fashioned alike of chiffon veiling satin and elaborately embroidered in crystals and rhinestones. The waists, creating a round neckline, were made basque effect and the skirts were very full. Their bouquets were pink roses and sweet peas tied with lavender sweetpeas and tied with tulle to match the color of their gowns. Mrs. Seiz wore turquoise blue and Miss Cobb's costume was of pale green.

The maid of honor, Miss Lucile Byrne, entered with A. Paul Smith. Her costume was fashioned like those of the bridesmaids and was of peach-colored chiffon gracefully draped peach-colored satin. A beautiful design of crystals and rhinestones adorned the gown and her shower bouquet was of pink roses and sweet peas tied with peach-colored tulle.

Mrs. F. A. Whitaker, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and wore a pretty model of orchid satin with overdrapery of orchid chiffon entirely embroidered in rhinestones and crystals. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and lavender sweetpeas.

Polton Hill, the groom's little nephew, wearing a white satin suit, carried the rings in the heart of an Easter lily.

Little Miss Marjorie Strickland, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Strickland, was the flower girl and preceded the bride. Her dainty frock of cream net and lace was made over a foundation of pink satin and was adorned with a row of pink ribbon attached to the left shoulder and the ends cascaded gracefully to the hem of the skirt. She carried a small basket of pink rosebuds.

Lovely Bride. The charming bride entered with her father, Emil Charles Seiz, Sr., by whom she was given in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother-in-law, F. A. Whitaker, who acted as best man.

The bride was radiantly beautiful in a wedding gown of ivory satin combined with Duchess lace. The plain bodice was fashioned basque effect and reflected the bateau neckline. The full, graceful skirt was adorned with a row of pink ribbon attached to the left shoulder and the ends cascaded gracefully to the hem of the skirt. She carried a small basket of pink rosebuds.

She received her education at North Avenue Presbyterian school and Washington seminary. She is a talented artist and has studied under several noted teachers. She is an attractive young woman with a most charming personality, easily winning friends, and is an admired member of the Mical set.

Mr. Shaw is the son of Mrs. Hattie L. Shaw, of Augusta, Ga., and brother of Mrs. F. A. Whitaker, of Macon; Mrs. George F. Hill, of Atlanta; Edward E. Shaw, of Honolulu, Hawaii; and Byron A. Shaw, of Miami, Fla.

He attended the Lanier High school of Macon and finished his education at Georgia Tech. He is a prominent young architect and engineer, and was connected with the Wisconsin Bridge and Iron company, of Milwaukee, at its offices in Detroit and Milwaukee. Since coming to Atlanta three years ago he has been connected with Robert & Co. Inc., architects and engineers, of Atlanta and Dallas.

Stag Parties Feature Program Of Events at National Conclave.

Wednesday's program for the joint national convalescence of Sigma Theta Pi and Psi Chi, prominent social organizations, being held in the city this week featured two stag parties, one held by the girls at the home of Mrs. L. B. Joel, on West Fourteenth street, and the other held by the men at the same hour at the Biltmore hotel.

The affair given by the sorority was in the nature of a kid party, at which all of the guests were costumed as small children. Dinner was served at a large oval table, at which the guests were seated, the decorations being mounds of garden flowers in the sorority colors of blue and gold. Hydrangeas, ragged robins and cornflowers were artistically combined with corymbis, yellow rosebuds and lilies. At intervals on the table were placed three large Jack Horner pies which were filled with souvenirs, blue and gold ribbons extending from the pies to the place of each guest. The souvenirs were white gold watch chains bearing the sorority insignia.

The place cards were adorned with Mother Goose pictures, and during the evening each guest had to fashion a rhyme concerning the picture on her card. Many children's games were played and lollipops and other candies were distributed. Speeches were made by the past national officers and the newly elected officers.

The new officers are: Mrs. Eugene Oberdorfer, Jr., of Atlanta, national president; Miss Helen Marks, of Washington, vice president; Miss Henrietta Schlesinger, of Denver, secretary; Miss Dorothea Whitley, of Los Angeles, treasurer; Miss Peggy B. GEORGIA COTTON CROP IN BETTER CONDITION

Georgia's cotton crop is in better condition and prospects are brighter for making a crop than in several years, according to the monthly report of the Georgia Cooperative Crop Reporting Service, which says that the crop registered a net improvement of seven points during the past month, placing the condition on June 25 at 75 per cent of normal, the highest on that date since 1918.

On the same date last year the condition was 56 per cent of normal; in 1922, 53 per cent; in 1921, 64 per cent; in 1920, 63 per cent; in 1919, 72 per cent; and in 1918, 80 per cent.

The major portion of the improvement, says the official report, came during the period between June 7 and 25, being preceded by a slight decline. The period of improvement was marked by hot, mostly dry, "cotton weather." Fields are reported as in a good state of cultivation in most of the state and plants have made good growth.

Very few weevils are reported in northern Georgia, and the number in the southern part is said to be considerably less than last year, although they are present in sufficient numbers to cause infestation and damage, should the weather prove unfavorable during the next few weeks.

Farmers of the state have reduced their acreage 2 per cent, on the basis of comparisons with the acreage planted and standing on June 25 last year, says the report.

BALDWIN PLAYERS TO CLOSE SEASON SATURDAY NIGHT

Announcement was made Wednesday that the Baldwin Players who have been appearing in stock at the Atlanta theater for the past eleven weeks, will wind up their engagement with the final performance on Saturday night of "Getting Gertie's Garter," the bill for this week.

The local engagement has been entirely successful, it was stated, close of the season being thought advisable because many of the leading members of the company wish to go to New York to prepare for engagements they have made for the coming theatrical season.

John B. Little, popular leading man, about whom the company was built, will remain in Atlanta for two weeks, it was stated, before leaving for New York.

"We have had an entirely successful season," said Mr. Little Wednesday. "We appreciate the kindness shown us by the theatergoing public. Our engagement came during the worst part of the year, from a theatrical standpoint, yet we had splendid audiences at all times."

Walter S. Baldwin, managing director and president of the company, made no announcement Wednesday regarding his plans for the immediate future.

Appropriation Bill Hearings Will Close After Two Weeks

After extended discussion, the appropriations committee of the house of representatives Wednesday afternoon decided that it will hold all bills referred to it in abeyance until July 16, without taking action on any legislation. Until this date, it was announced, hearings will be heard on any bills, but hearings will cease on that date.

Judge E. H. Calloway, of Augusta, member of the board of trustees of the University of Georgia, and T. W. Reed, secretary and treasurer of the university, appeared before the committee Wednesday, advocating an appropriation to the university of $50,000 this year and $100,000 annually beginning next year. This amount, they explained, is necessary to keep from breaking a contract with the federal government, as well as to continue the $50,000 annual appropriation from the government for educational work in the state.

It was pointed out by the speakers that Georgia receives from the United States government an appropriation of $50,000 yearly, two-thirds of which is used as a maintenance fund at the University of Georgia, and the balance for negro educational work, which goes to the Industrial School for Colored Youth at Savannah.

This appropriation was made after the state had contracted to keep the two institutions in good condition. The negro school building at Savannah burned down a short time ago and it is estimated that $20,000 is needed to complete the new building already begun and $25,000 for a new dormitory. If the school is not put in condition, the speakers said, the government will stop the $50,000 appropriation.

A resolution from the state prison commission was read before the committee, asking $2,500 for paying salaries of employees in the office of the prison commission.

The Calm Before the Storm.

When Marjorie, quite calm, told Tom Grosvenor that she intended to give him up, he was startled into a semblance of complete sobriety.

"Marjorie," he caught her arm, his face going white in the moonlight, "you can't mean that! Tell me, you don't mean it! Tell me you're only saying it because you're sore about—about my drinking. I won't do it again. I swear I won't!"

She disengaged her arm gently. "Tom dear, it's a trite-old saying about 'in vino veritas' but it's never been disproved. You said something a few minutes ago which made me see that I am being terribly unfair when I promise you that I'll marry you—and I won't be the faintest assurance whether I ever can or not. I've promised myself that I'll get free of Reed Hollister, but there are many things that may prevent it. I can't explain to you, you've got to trust me. In the meantime though, I'm not going to spoil your life by keeping you pledged to me. I'll release you now, tonight, from any obligation, until such a time as I am free and it is possible for me to marry you, if you should still want me."

"No," he cried out in sharp fear. "I won't let you go! I won't let you go! I love you. You love me, or you say you do. You've got to go through with it. If you don't, his face was suddenly dark, ugly. 'I'll settle with Hollister myself.'"

She tried to tell herself that the threat, this mood of his, was induced by liquor and would be gone in the morning, but the little seed of fear he had sowed persisted. He might begin to drink more often—in Dan's company, he probably would—he might dwell on the thought that he could "fix" Hollister and thus get her. She shuddered at the thought of the whole calamitous avalanche which she might set rolling.

Very soothingly, she assured him that she had no intention of giving him up, that she was really only testing the strength of his love. She was rewarded by seeing the ugly light die out of his eyes. He smiled a bit unsteadily and passed his hand wearily over his brow.

"Get a beastly headache," he muttered a trifle shamefacedly. "Guess I've been all kinds of a boonder this evening. Forgive me, sweetheart, will you?"

He made to kiss her, but she drew back distastefully. "Please, not when you've been drinking!"

"Oh, all right," he agreed good-humoredly. "Guess I deserve it. Night!"

She stood there in the shadow of the portico and waited until she heard the bang of a closing door at Cora Forester's. Then she drew a deep sigh of relief. He would sleep. In the morning, if he remembered at all, he would be very apologetic for the spectacle he had made of himself. Of course it was Dan's fault primarily.

If only Mrs. Boice-Nevis would return, she thought. Then she could hold a family council, announce her intention of freeing herself from Hollister's bounty, and let the storm break around her head. All their pious breaking up, their upbraiding, their pleas wouldn't change her determination in the least. There was Tom Grosvenor to think of beside herself. Something must be done at once.

There was a message from her mother in the morning, announcing Julie's remarriage and her own return the following day. After breakfast, Tom, looking a little the worse for wear, came over, wearing a mantle of humility for his behavior the night before.

Things seemed to be picking up in her favor, she thought. She almost believed she saw the shy vision of happiness hovering on the distant horizon.

The day was lovely, one of those rare, mellow, golden days of summer when the garden drooped in a silence broken only by the drone of locusts, the cooing of the strutting pigeons, the call of bright-colored birds flashing about in the sunlight.

Marjorie and Tom spent the afternoon sailing on the Sound. He was very charming and penitent after his misdeeds of the previous evening. More love-like than ever, as though he feared she might even yet carry out her threat of putting him out of her life.

She was never lovelier. A warm flush, the kiss of the summer wind, had suffused her ivory pallor. Her lips were flaming scarlet. In her crisp white outfit, blown by the wind to outline her slim young body, with the sunlight shining on her fair hair, she was like some lovely young goddess deigning for a brief period to lend her gracious presence to the little people of the mundane world. Tom, looking at her adoringly, but not daring, somehow, to touch her, was humbling the message that would turn the glad hope in Marjorie's eyes to the dullness of despair.

Perhaps he sensed, with a lover's instinct, the dark shadow of destiny that was hurrying to overtake them. For, through the bright sunshine of the summer afternoon, on wires that stretched gleaming mile on mile, was humming the message that would turn the glad hope in Marjorie's eyes to the dullness of despair.

FORGERY CHARGED TO SAVANNAH AFTER COURT SUIT

Savannah, Ga., July 2.—(Special.) J. Sprunt Newton, of Savannah, is under indictment today, charged with forging the name of his uncle, Dan C. Newton, of Claxton, on a note for $2,000. Suit against the uncle brought the evidence on which the younger man was indicted. The same defendant was indicted in 1921 on a charge of forgery, the same uncle being involved in the transaction, which was with a local bank.

A celebrated physician recently said: "Tell me how your colon is working and I will tell you how you feel. If your colon is emptying itself regularly and completely every day you feel young, energetic and vigorous, but if your colon is lazy and lacking in tone, so that the poisons are retained and re-absorbed into your system, you feel weak, nervous and old."

Colon poisoning (auto-intoxication) is the most common cause of chronic diseases, especially appendicitis, indigestion, constipation, sick headaches, rheumatism and other toxic diseases. Millions suffer without realizing how easily the cause can be removed. Tell your druggist to send you a bottle of Colone—the colon tonic. It will quickly restore tone to the muscular walls of your colon and within a short time your toxic condition will disappear. You will feel young, energetic and vigorous, for the cause of your constipation and self-poisoning will have been permanently removed. The more of Colone you take, the less you have to take. It is just the opposite with other laxatives. Every druggist has been instructed to refund the price if you are not thoroughly delighted with Colone. (adv.)

MAXSON FURNACE JUBEL

The Kingdom of Live!
By Lucile E. Clark.

I went to Cupid's retreat,
I wandered o'er the sand,
The moon rose o'er the water
As I held her little-paraol.

II.
I held her little paraol,
Goodness me! how fast time flies!
The night was very lovely
As I gazed into her—lunch-basket.

III.
I gazed into her lunch-basket,
And I longed for just one taste,
Then sat beside my little girl
With my arm around her—umbrella handle.

IV.
With my arm around her umbrella handle,
Of that charming little miss,
The moon stole o'er the water
And I shyly stole a sandwich.

The Connoisseur.

We heard a man at the theater the other day raving thus: "What beautiful creature! How graceful in her motion! How pleasing to the eye! Isn't that one a 'pippin'! And will you please look at that one with the pink back? And that one with the—"
Right here we better explain. The man was in the lobby, and he was admiring the goldfish.

Noble of Her.

Mabel: "So he kissed you against your will? Did you slap him, like he deserved?"
Ethel: "No, I remembered what the Bible teaches, and turned the other cheek."

All Set.

I lowered my eyes to hers,
In which was a glint of shine,
And when they met
Her lips were set,
And also, my friends, were mine.
—Harry J. Williams.

Well Fed!

Jones: "How was your garden this year?"
Hawkins: "Great. My neighbor's chickens took first prize at the poultry show."
—Victor Trapani.

A Little Boy's Essay On the Radio.

The radio is a wonderful invention.
It is the one thing in the house at which father can talk freely.
It is the thing which baby brother does not carry all over the house and lose.
The radio is the only one in the house who can howl as much as he wants and not be taken to the woodshed. It is a thing father likes because shoes do not eternally have to be bought for it.
—Eleanor Sewell.

The Finishing Touch!

Jane (applying the lipstick and studying the effects): "Are my lips the right shade?"
Bob: "Yes, if you will let me touch them up a little."
—Mrs. Sara M. Torbett.

Lonely.

By Griff Crawford.
Daddy's at the golf club,
Six at matinee,
Mother has her face all
Plastered up with clay;
Grandpa's at the drug store
Uncle's on a face of grandeur
Grandma's at the barber
Shop to bob her hair.
Gee a kid is lonely
Living now-a-days,
With his folks a-chasing
Every foolish craze—
Home is big and quiet.
Mr. but ain't it still!
Guess I'll duck my school
And smoke another pill.

Once again I ask you, my tot?

Reverse English.
A stout man hurried out from his home, ran to the corner, and reached a second too late to catch a passing street car. As he stood there panting and glaring at the fast disappearing car, a kind-hearted policeman inquired: "Were you trying to catch that car, sir?"
"No," replied the fat man angrily, "I was just chasing it away from the corner."

AMPHIBIAN ROMANCE.
By Robert W. Spier.
A tree toad loved a she toad
That lived up in a tree;
She was a three-toed tree toad,
But a two-toed toad was he.
The two-toed toad tried to win
The she toad's friendly nod;
For the two-toed tree toad loved the ground,
That the three-toed tree toad trod.
But vainly the two-toed tree toad tried,
He couldn't please her whim;
In her tree toad bower with her veto power
The she toad vetoed him.

It Made Him Cuss and Swear!
Clergyman: "I brought back this second-hand car I bought from you last week. It's too shaky and noisy."
Dealer: "What's the trouble? Can't you run it?"
Clergyman: "Not and stay in the ministry."

ence between an oyster fork and an ice cream spoon when she went."
Hector's head began to reel; she had written those letters, after all. The conductor came through and took his ticket. Young Whitney looked embarrassed.

"Awfully sorry—" he began.
"That's all right." Hector waved his apologies aside and, taking out a roll of bills, handed the boy a fistful, hardly conscious of what he was doing.

"Thanks. That's corking of you," Jack acknowledged his generosity with a grateful look. "I'll settle up with you in a day or so. I guess I did come off rather half cocked," he sighed. "But Prue's letter and those Stuarts made me frantic."

"How on earth did your sister—did Prue—get mixed up with them?" He liked the sound of "Prue" on his own lips.

"Old man Stuart—they spelled it S-t-u-a-r-t—in those days—used to run the bar at Eagle Rock, Texas, where dad had a ranch. He was the richest man in town, too; and when dad went broke and had to sell out, he, Stuart, bought the ranch. Then, hang the luck, two months afterward he struck oil—right by the place we used to play tennis. So he moved back to Syracuse, where he lived in the dark ages of his childhood, and when he heard we were down and out he wrote Prue and asked her to come up and teach Clara 'how to do things.' She used to be Clara—changed to Carolyn along with the Stuart. Yet, Hector reflected, she had written those beautiful, those mystifying letters. He heard Jack Whitney in a sort of daze.

"Prue never complained, but I guess she had it pretty rough. Prue wouldn't complain, she's not the whining sort." His voice was husky with feeling and he ran a large, freckled hand through his hair. "And now—it makes me utterly sick to think about it—she's probably gone down to marry that Foster fellow. I was in hopes she'd fixed it up with you." Hector came to life suddenly. "Mar-ry? What do you mean?"

"That's the only thing I can think of. There was a train on the D. L. & W. at four-thirty; that note was left at my room about four-fifteen. She could have just made it." He faced Hector, a very definite worry in his young eyes. "She mustn't do it, Mr. McKenzie. He's a rotter. We mustn't let her do it."

Hector met his look squarely and forced himself to a last desperate effort at common sense. "You owned a car. How could you when your sister had a job like that?"

"Prue and I saved and saved; it was really she who bought it. She called it her 'little black home in the west.' Said it was the nearest thing to a home she had." A smile for the vagaries of the feminine mind twisted the boy's mouth.

Hector reacted to it differently. It tugged at his heartstrings, somehow. But he continued his questioning with dogged determination. "How did you happen to—be felt for his forehead with his finger—to run into me, to know who I was?"

"Oh, that," the boy grinned. "Prue'd kill me if she thought I told you that!"

"Well, you almost killed me, so we'll consider the risks even. Shoot!" Hector's heart was racing. "Prue, Prue, Prue!" it sang. He remembered vividly the touch of her fresh young lips under his. Bit by bit he felt common sense slipping.

"She heard you were coming on that train, so she called me up and told me to take her down to meet it. When she saw you get off and go toward the taxi, she said, 'There, that must be he. It couldn't be anybody else in the world! Hurry, Jack, I want to see the initials on his bag!' I hurried. That's all."

The train rushed on. The car was filled with the sound of crying babies and the smell of bananas and oranges. But Hector, the fastidious, never noticed. He never moved, even, until he felt young Whitney's hand on his arm.

New York, July 2.—The government report indicating a crop of 144,000 bales was followed by a break of over a cent in the cotton market today. October sold off from 25.82 to 24.15 or 103 points net lower and closed at 24.18, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 31 to 106 points.

The market was steady early on comparatively firm cables and reiterated reports of excessive rain in the eastern belt. July sold up to 30 cents and December to 24.00 in the first few minutes, but increased offerings at these figures. Later, selling on the unexpectedly bearish government report was stimulated by a favorable weekly weather review and belief that the crop has improved since the government's condition of 71.2 was made up as of June 25, July broke to 28.50 and December to 23.50. Some trade buying was reported on the decline but the close was nearly at the lowest.

SHARP DECLINE
AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, July 2.—The cotton market developed a sharp decline in prices today, following the publication of the government report showing the condition of the crop on June 25 to have been 71.2 per cent of normal, the acreage 40,403,000 acres, or an increase of 4.4 per cent, and the indicated crop 12,144,000 bales, exclusive of lint. Prices dropped 72 points within five minutes of the time the bureau report was issued, and although there was a small rally and a steadier feeling for a time, prices eased off again in the late trading. July advanced 22 points in the early trading, to 28.18 and after the report declined to 27.01, or 112 points down from the high. October was 8 up early at 24.50, but sank to 23.37 later, a decline of 113 points from the high. The other new crop months followed about the same course.

The close was practically at the low price of the day, showing net losses compared with yesterday's close of 90 points on July and 98 to 104 points on new crop months.

The government report was a great surprise to the trade, both in the matter of condition and indicated crop. The condition improved 5.6 points during June against an average improvement during the last month in the last ten years of only 2 points. The increase in acreage of 4.4 per cent was about in line with expectations but the indicated crop of 12,144,000 was 400,000 to 500,000 larger than anybody looked for.

Considering the sensational character of the government report most traders thought that the market had acted well, and the decline was much less than might have been expected from the larger crop indication than looked for. Weather news was generally favorable and the weekly weather and crop summary was quite as favorable as expected, but these and all other developments were ignored, owing to the interest in the monthly government report.

Stock Letter.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, July 2.—Activity and strength continued in the stock market early today with U. S. Steel leading the industrial list and Nickel Plate taking first place among the rails. It was expected favorably on an unofficial report of 25 cents per barrel by the Magnolia company, and with few exceptions, other groups displayed a very firm undertone.

Cotton Letters.

POST & FLAG.

New York, July 2.—With this report the demand should hold off and wait for better opportunity to buy while speculative interests will show more inclination to sell on strong spots than to take the market. We are, however, now in the period when crop news can quickly change for the worse and there is already a large stock interest in existence. Little or nothing done as yet by consumers to hedge requirements.

FENNER & BEANE.

New Orleans, July 2.—We believe the government's condition too high and its acreage figures inflated. It will, however, take some time for the public to come to a realization of this. In the meantime bearish sentiment will be encouraged and selling stimulated until there is a decided change in the crop outlook.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New York, July 2.—Under the circumstances it is not surprising that the decline in the market was not greater and that some of the public came to the realization of this. In the meantime bearish sentiment will be encouraged and selling stimulated until there is a decided change in the crop outlook.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, July 2.—W. W. Price says: The bureau of 72.2 and average figures of 40,403,000 acres, and the indicated crop of 12,144,000 bales, exclusive of lint. Prices dropped 72 points within five minutes of the time the bureau report was issued, and although there was a small rally and a steadier feeling for a time, prices eased off again in the late trading. July advanced 22 points in the early trading, to 28.18 and after the report declined to 27.01, or 112 points down from the high. The other new crop months followed about the same course.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, July 2.—In light of past experience with weevil crops, the supplies at what is after the market, the low average of last season. Whether the demand will prove sufficient to prevent a further temporary recession in the more distant future, is in any event, dependent on the progress of the crop. The market is now in a position to be a more reasonable price, the consumption of American cotton will automatically tend to increase rather rapidly. In the month of August and September, we would advise considerable caution in becoming too bullish at a price level as high as this. The supply situation can not be considered excessive, but the position here, however, is not of great importance in the general market.

PRICES ARE MIXED IN CURB MARKET

New York, July 2.—Mixed price movement in today's curb market reflected the readjustment of speculative accounts. Trading was under reduced scale.

Gains of approximately a point by Standard Oil of New York and Prairie Oil and Gas were offset by losses of a point each in Humble Oil, Vacuum and Salt Creek Producers, the declaration of an extra dividend of 50 cents on the last named having no effect on the market price of the stock.

Interest in the industrial list centered largely on the trading in 21,000 bags of rubber at 2 1/2 to 3 points net higher, with only a small trade, July 20 points to a record high of 228, or 100 points above the initial quotations a few weeks ago.
